Venishmartem's worldwide directory of technicians for free filter help.

Goal

The goal of Venishmartem is to solve the internet problem at the root, by providing effective and easy-to-use filtering solutions for Klal Yisrael. Venishmartem aims to help 100,000 people within the next 12 months to install effective filtering.

Background & History

The Venishmartem website was launched on May 20th 2012, the day of the big internet Asifa in Citi-Field. With minimal advertising, the website has received over 100,000 visits since its inception — more than the entire crowd at the CitiField event (which cost over $10 million to arrange!). We also recently launched a new Hebrew Venishmartem website to help Israelis find and install filtering solutions for their devices.

Venishmartem's research and testing center.

Method

Venishmartem researches, develops and makes available to the Jewish public the best filtering solutions for all devices through state of the art websites. The website are made known to the public mainly through on-line advertising, effectively targeting Jewish internet users. We have negotiated advertising deals with leading Jewish websites for the coming year (theYeshivaworld.com, Vosizneias.com, Arutz 7, etc.) to provide 122,500 clicks for $20,845 (an excellent rate of $0.17 / click).

The Venishmartem websites provide simple installation instructions for “dummies” along with PDF guides, which should be sufficient for servicing 90% of those who turn to the website for help. For those who need extra assistance, Venishmartem provides email support administered by trained staff, as well as referrals to paid technicians.

Highlights of our site

- The most trusted up-to-date solutions for all popular devices/computers.
- An internal forum with tens of technicians who research and advise us about the best solutions coming out all the time.
- Clear step-by-step instructions and tutorials to help people install filters, designed for anyone to understand.
- Printable filter guides for shuls, schools and assifos.
- Resources for professionals who help yidden with filters (many technicians consult with our site for the latest information).
- An expanding directory of professional frum filter technicians for those who need extra help.
- A mobile site that will give immediate solutions for the device used to access the site.
- Hebrew Venishmartem website for Israelis. Yiddish, Spanish, French sections under development.
- Buying guide: A list of phones that have the best support for quality filters, so people can know what to purchase to keep safe.
- Email support administered by trained staff.

Unique Venishmartem Projects

Venishmartem Cloud Filter (gye.org.il/vcf)

For those who don't want to have the nisayon of being able to bypass/remove their filter, VCF cannot be removed and only Venishmartem can make changes to the account settings.

Webshadow

A new project currently in development that will allow parents to receive email reports and alerts about their children's web activity on any device. The reports are designed to be understood easily and to show all relevant information at a glance.

Venishmartem Knas-Based Accountability (gye.org.il/kba)

For those who want to have accountability but have a hard time finding a partner, KBA is a knas based system developed by Venishmartem in conjunction with Covenant Eyes and Yishmoreini.

Venishmartem Blackberry App (gye.org.il/bb)

For those who need email but don't want internet on their Blackberry, our app is the only way to remove internet browsing capabilities. Approximately 8,000 people have downloaded and are using this app.

Glattsearch.com

A Kosher search engine developed by Venishmartem, which does not have image or video search capabilities. It also filters the query, the results, and the ads that appear on the page. (Coming soon! Glattsearch will be linked to our VCF Pro intelligent filter to become even more accurate in detecting inappropriate searches.)

For the first time ever, Israelis now have access to a one-stop shop for filtering solutions for all devices. The Venishmartem Hebrew website launched in 2014 has already been a great success.

Venishmartem produces PDF guide booklets for each type of device to help people protect their internet enabled devices. The booklets contain step by step information with screenshots and examples to make it easy “For Dummies” to protect their own device!

Protecting Our Homes

At a Flatbush "Filterthon" event in a tent set up in front of Khal Veretzky (Landau's shul), more than 20 technicians installed filters and answered technology questions for hundreds of residents at no charge, all day Sunday. The event was organized by Venishmartem.

Senator: IRS Targeting Of Tea Party Is 'Chilling'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republicans said Sunday that the Internal Revenue Service's heightened scrutiny of conservative political groups was "chilling" and further eroded public trust in government.

Lawmakers said President Barack Obama should apologize personally for targeting tea party organizations, and they challenged the tax agency's blaming of low-level workers.

"I just don't buy that this was a couple of rogue IRS employees," said Sen. Susan Collins (R-Maine). "After all, groups with 'progressive' in their names were not targeted similarly."

If it were just a small number of employees, she said, "then you would think that the high-level IRS supervisors would have

Shavuos at the Brooklyn Jewish Experience

Shavuos, which celebrates Mattan Torah, is one of the most important Yamim Tovim, yet, astoundingly, an overwhelming number of Jews have never heard of it.

Reb Dovid Neiburg, one of the guest speakers for Shavuos at Brooklyn Jewish Experience (BJX), Brooklyn's kiruv center, shared his feelings: "So many open Jewish neshamos in Brooklyn—where can they go for inspiration and sincere exposure to authentic Judaism without feeling judged or out of place? Can such a place exist? The address is BJX at 2915 Avenue K. With such warmth, people cannot help but be attracted to what BJX has to offer, with Rabbi Fingerer at the center of this motivating force," he said.

Rabbi Fingerer spoke passionately about Shavuos in a special BJX lecture, several days prior to Shavuos, and laid out the exciting program details.

The results of the BJX Shavuos-night program, held in the beautiful, new kiruv and Torah center, were astonishing. As Rabbi Fingerer says, "I was absolutely awestruck. It was 'nes gadol hayah po'—a miracle transpiring before my very own eyes."

A delicious catered seudah was followed by an evening of learning and five different exciting shiuurim, spanning topics as fundamental as the veracity of the Oral Law and as esoteric as reincarnation. More than 50 students participated in the night of learning which concluded at 4 a.m.—over 50 neshamos that otherwise would never have been exposed to the kedushah of Mattan Torah.

Mr. Yisroel (Jerry) Gross said, "To see so many eager Jewish souls willing to take a giant leap and step into a shul Shavuos night was awesome. I watched them open their eyes, ears, and hearts, all willing to absorb the words of Torah from Sinai."

Those who want to help BJX reach out to the precious neshamos of Brooklyn can help sponsor a program. Please call (646) 397-1544.

'Filterthon' Takes Flatbush By Storm

What do you get when dozens of talented technicians, concerned community askanim and lay leaders, and a community looking to purify their homes and protect their souls in advance of the holy Yom Tov of Kabbalas HaTorah gather in one tent? Why, a Filterthon!

Well over 1,600 Yidden came through the large tent that was erected outside Khal Veretzky in Flatbush last Sunday with desktop computers, laptops, phones, and other devices in tow, in need of filtering for proper internet usage.

The event, co-sponsored by Hamodia, was arranged by a few concerned activists who feel that the best way to help the community to protect their families is by offering professional-grade filtering solutions for their devices, with the added incentive of bringing the solutions to their doors—in this case outside the shul where thousands come through on a Sunday.

To this end, a large tent was erected on Avenue L, with stations manned by trained technicians, each station geared to different kinds of devices. From 8 a.m. until midnight, they offered solutions and installed many various kinds of filters, according to need.

Hamodia sat down with the people behind Venishmartem, the powerhouse organization behind this Filterthon, the Filterthon in Boro Park one year ago, and hopefully many more as long as one Jewish home still possesses open internet.

"The goal of Venishmartem is to solve the internet problem at its root, by providing effective and easy-to-use filtering solutions for Klal Yisrael. Venishmartem aims to help tens of thousands of Yidden from all over the world to install effective filtering in the coming years. Venishmartem's team of technicians researches every existing up-to-date solution for every type of device," Yaakov, the organization's founder, told Hamodia.

Venishmartem has since its inception been on the lookout for effective, sophisticated solutions, and after constant experimentation have arrived at the VCF (Venishmartem Cloud Filter) solution, complete with a call center which, for a minimal monthly fee, provides a full and tailored service to each customer.

On the heels of their success at the Boro Park event last year, as soon as a sponsor was found for this Flatbush event, they came here.

Yaakov relates one event that expresses the effectiveness of the Filterthon: "One guy came with seven devices! Two laptops, a few moments of my sharing a few stories with him, he promptly agreed to filter all his devices," Yechezkel told Hamodia.

Despite having spent many years in the arena, Yaakov is nevertheless inspired. "It was so inspiring to see how many Yidden from all walks of life came to get protection on their devices."

filter will do. This whole situation has to change. We must ensure that the coming generation doesn't even have a question about whether to use internet without a filter. Just like frum families today don't have a television, it should be understood that no frum person uses unfiltered internet.

"Our children will not be frustrated that the filter blocks the things they like—because they never will have had the experience of using the internet without a filter in the first place. I should become a given for every frum Yid that unfiltered internet is a danger to the very fabric of Jewish life. The next generation of frum Yidden must grow up with the concept of filtered internet as a basic prerequisite to being an erlicher Yid," he says.

What is their petition to the community? "We need your help!" says Yechezkel, co-founder. "Get in touch with us so we can bring this campaign worldwide, and effect the change that Yaakov speaks of."

To those who want to answer the call of "Mi laShem eilai," Yaakov can be contacted at info@filterthon.com or at (646) 600-8100 Ext. 3.

As Rabbi Shain told Hamodia "One of the reasons for the min hachag to eat milchigs on Shavuos is that the utensils of Am Yisrael were rendered treif due to receiving the mitzvah of basar b'chala at Kabbalas HaTorah. What we saw today was people of all stripes coming to, l'havdil, 'kasher' their 'keilim' in order to receive the Torah on Shavuos in more elevated and purified manner."

As a public service Venishmartem filter guides are available free of charge, describing the many different types of filters in detail, for many types of devices. There is an accompanying CD that allows you download protection directly, for a computer or laptop. Rabbanim and principals are welcome to call (347) 869-7331.

Guide For Filtering Web Dangers

Internet safety watchdog "Guard Your Eyes" has recently trained Shluchim on the dangers community members are facing. A special guide was made available to COLLIVE.

By COLLIVE reporter

Some shocking general statistics on Internet dangers were presented to Chabad Shluchim during the 5773 Kinus, in an effort drum up awareness and caution.

R' Mechel Moskowitz, manager of the filter division at Venishmartem Internet solutions, was the presenter during the Thursday session at the Brooklyn Marriott Hotel.

The session was held to help Shluchim learn from filtering experts about Internet safety and how to use filters, including what they can—and cannot—do for their communities.

One statistic from the London School of Economics showed that 9 out of 10 children between the ages of 8 and 16 have viewed inappropriate material on the Internet, in most cases unintentionally.

Another was that in 56% of divorce cases today, a major contributing factor is one spouse's inappropriate use of the Internet.

Moskowitz spoke to Shluchim on "how to counsel your community on using the Internet" and how effective are the various filters available today for all technological devices.

Attendees received a copy of a comprehensive filtering guide created by Moskowitz especially for the Kinus, taking into account Chabad centers' needs. (COLLIVE readers can download it here).

He referred participants, who lead communities and educational institutions, to visit guardyoureyes.com, a site to help people maintain moral purity and break free of inappropriate behaviors and venishmartem.com, a site with web filter reviews.

Moskowitz has urged Shluchim to speak out on the issue in their respective communities, quoting the noted psychiatrist and author Rabbi Dr. Abraham J. Twerski, "It's one of the most powerful addictions."

Twerski has said in the past that "day after day after day - I get letters and calls from people who say, 'what can I do to save myself?' [The internet] has ruined more marriages than anything, ruined families. It's been terribly destructive."

Moderating the session was Rabbi Mendy Elishevitz, the internet savvy Shliach in Karmiel, Israel.

"Unmonitored internet access is literally destroying many precious neshamos, it affects the families of our mekuravim - and even our own. We owe it to ourselves and our community to be technologically informed so that we stay ahead of the game," he stated.

לאי"ט, Menahel / Menacheles, Dear

The recent התעוררות at gatherings worldwide, alerting and heightening awareness to the formidable dangers of the internet has ב"ה been making its impact in very practical ways in Jewish households, schools, offices, institutions and communities throughout the world. Torah Umesorah would like to reinforce to the schools, and more significantly to its parent bodies, the inherent dangers – for both children and adults – in utilizing an unfiltered computer or technological device with access to the internet.

Accessing the internet without a filter is exposing a child or oneself to some of the worst איסורים המורים. Horror stories abound of many marriages, families, children – so many neshamos – who have been literally destroyed due to an innocent, casual look on the computer which – because there was no filter – lured the child or adult into sites which unsuspectingly exposed them to immorality of the lowest level, violence, foreign ideas antithetical to Torah, and/or the ability to communicate inappropriately with strangers through social forums. The force of the internet is so magnetizing that many have developed difficult-to-cure addictions.

Unsupervised internet use is a danger being recognized by Jew and gentile alike as a leading cause for the moral decay within society.

The school and parents invest so much effort into being מהנדך and raising children הקודש; installing a filter is one of the most significant actions a school and parent can take to protect its students and children.

We urge you to work together with your parent body in assuring that every household in which there is internet use, for whatever necessary reason, be required to install a filter. Please share this message and the attached information about filters with your parent body. We also ask the school to establish guidelines requiring all parents of students to install filters.

As we approach the ימים נוראים and look heavenward for ישועות וסייעתא דשמיא, it behooves us to demonstrate to the והיה מחנך קודש of מצוה our efforts to fulfill the רבש"ע.

Dear Parents,

After a spectacular start of the school year with a record enrollment, I take this opportunity to express our appreciation for your partnership in the chinuch of our children.

Safety has become an important part of the culture of schools across the nation. Our kids need to be made aware of important issues such as stranger danger, technology danger and personal space. Children must be sensitized and reassured. They must be encouraged to share information with their parents.

Technological innovations continue to take society by storm. Our school has demonstrated a deep commitment to technological advances and will continue to utilize the positive, innovative applications for the benefit of our students. With the flooding of technology into society, however, the worrisome applications of phones, iPods, electronic games, and other such gadgets is staggering. The knowledge children have of these devices most often supersedes that of parents and teachers.

Internet access enables many of us to keep informed of cutting edge concepts and markets. As responsible parents committed to Torah values, it is incumbent upon each of us to be cognizant of the dangers in exposing our children to the internet. We often read about the horrors of social networking and cyberbullying in the press. If your home has access, we urge you to have appropriate blocks. Without the benefit of filters and constant supervision, please do not permit your child internet access at home or in any other environment.

Internet enabled devices can easily be protected for the safety of our children. Although I have no personal experience with the organizations below, I would like to inform you about the following free resources:

VENISHMARTEM CLOUD FILTER

VCF is Born

Experience with K9 and other existing filters proved problematic for several reasons, mainly because of the frustration that was caused to users in blocking sites they needed and in the cumbersome, slow and complicated manner of handling requests for opening kosher sites blocked by the filters. In the meantime, Venishmartem researched better solutions and identified the Livigent filtering technology as the best solutions for the Jewish public. The Livigent software has advanced artificial intelligence that allows for the filtering of problematic sites like YouTube, for those who insist on having it open. A special arrangement was reached with Livigent to fit Venishmartem's specifications and we created a unique filter called VCF (Venishmartem Cloud Filter). We are providing the service to the greater Jewish community through a special website www.vcfprotection.com. We also offer VCF for Android and iOS.

Venishmartem 'Filterthon' Event to Feature New Technology

A new breakthrough internet filter will be unveiled on Sunday at a Flatbush event for Venishmartem, where more than 20 technicians will be available to install filters for free.

The event is being sponsored by two prominent Brooklyn askanim who asked not to be named but said they want to help people strengthen themselves when confronted with the dangers presented by the internet.

The Venishmartem program, for which they coined the term "filterthon," will be held at a giant tent in front of Khal Veretzky (Landau's shul) on Avenue L and E. 9th Street, and will bring to Flatbush a program that has already enabled thousands of Yidden, easily and free of charge, to change their electronic machines from devices with the potential for grievous spiritual harm into clean computers, smartphones or tablets capable of all their previous work, while removing their pitfalls.

David Hecht, a computer technician who volunteers often for Venishmartem's filtering programs, said that as careful as a yungerman may be, the dangers that are latent in computers and smartphones are omnipresent.

"As technology keeps evolving and progressing," Mr. Hecht said, "so do the dangers that come with it."

Mr. Hecht also said even that if people think they are immune to the darker side of technology, other family members may unwittingly fall prey.

"It's just too easy for a child playing with a parent's old phone to connect to any WiFi network and get complete unfiltered access," he said. "Merely typing the wrong address can somehow end up opening the worst possible sites. The least we can do is protect ourselves and our families from these mistakes."

About two dozen experienced technicians will be available at the tent all day Sunday, from 8 in the morning until 11 at night, to help with installing filters and guiding users on the best plans for filtering. The workers are professional and have varied experiences, so anyone who comes in will have someone there who can help him. Some have expertise with smartphones, while others are experts on computers.

Venishmartem officials say they are excited about a new filter they are unveiling on Sunday for the first time, which they say addresses many of the problems people have had with current filtering systems.

The new filter, called the Venishmartem Cloud Filter, or VCF (www.vcf.co.il), was invented by the founder of Jnet. This person has recently sold Jnet and spent $6 million to develop a filter that would act smartly, filtering the bad sites while allowing quick access to harmless sites.

He has succeeded in doing even better. VCF filters can even discern harmful pictures or videos on a single webpage. The filter allows access to the page, while blocking any inappropriate parts.

The VCF brochure explains, "You won't have the option of Technicians installing filters in computers.

instantly removing the filter during a weak moment. Removing VCF requires the assistance of our customer support, and takes at least 24 hours."

The advantages of VCF are manifold. If you want to unblock a certain site, it can now be done remotely, without the user needing to open his software first. There are many levels of protection, and the filter can be set to different levels for different users.

The password lies with the VCF team, eliminating the need to share passwords. Since the filter blocks at the cloud level, it is impossible to uninstall or circumvent.

"Our program is installed on your computer and insures that all your browsing is routed through our servers," the VCF brochure asserts. "So it makes no difference how you connect; you will always be filtered."

Users do not have to change Internet Services Providers, since VCF works with any ISP. Thousands of CDs are ready for distribution on Sunday for instant setup and a clear guide for the filter. The service costs $4.99 a month ($7.99 for the Pro version), but is free for those who cannot afford it.

VCF does not slow down the computer, takes five minutes to install and can be done at home by yourself.

Venishmartem was launched before Pesach last year, when an event at the Karlsburg Hall in Boro Park drew hundreds of people.

Two months later, the Venishmartem website (www.venishmartem.com) was launched. The Venishmartem staff will be available on Sunday to help all comers. While the event is for men only, anyone can call 718-GET-HELP."

Venishmartem Cloud Filter

This spring (2013), Venishmartem released a new filtering solution dubbed VCF (Venishmartem Cloud Filter). This filter promises to bring a revolution to the Jewish community.

What is a "Cloud Filter"?

The term cloud is used nowadays to describe a service that uses online software, rather than software installed on your computer. Think of an online email service like Gmail, for example. Instead of keeping copies of your emails on your computer, they are stored online and are accessible from anywhere. At Venishmartem, we have discovered that a cloud-based filter is the ultimate solution for the Jewish community.

Here's why: When a filter is installed on your computer, then by definition, you are the only one capable of making changes to the filtering level. You can even turn it off on a whim, when you have a weak moment. Even if the program is protected by a password, it is only effective if you have someone who can hold the password for you. Otherwise, the filter hardly provides any real protection.

A cloud based filter is very different. Since it is online, no physical access to your computer is necessary to make changes to your account. Therefore, the management of the filter can be delegated to someone else. With VCF, you delegate this job to the Venishmartem staff or other professional technicians who are trained by Venishmartem.

It's not that you're relinquishing control completely; you can always ask us to change your filtering level or to allow a specific site. You can even hire one of our trained 3rd party technicians to customize a tailor-made filtering level to suit your precise needs. But thanks to VCF, gone are the days when you'll find yourself turning the filter on and off depending on your mood. You also won't have the option to instantly remove the filter in a weak moment. Removing VCF requires the assistance of our customer support and takes a least 24 hours.

"Gone are the days when you'll find yourself turning the filter on and off depending on your mood"

Until now, cloud filtering technology was only available by switching your ISP (internet service provider) to a Jewish company, and was only available in specific locations. Now, with VCF, this technology is accessible to everyone. In addition, VCF protects your computer even when you are connected to the internet through a public unfiltered WiFi network.

Venishmartem is a non-profit, and our only goal in providing these solutions is to solve the internet problem at the root, by providing effective and easy-to-use filtering solutions for Klal Yisrael.
