Posted by Shteeble - 08 Jul 2011 13:29

Okay Chevra, we have 90,000 to go. Please keep to one reason per post, and 20 words or less per reason.

When you feel like acting out, make sure to read all 90,000 reasons why you shouldn't first.

A selfish reason: the awesome feeling of being in control, vs. terrible sadness of being enslaved by the Dark Side.

Although I understand and also accept the general direction of your "correction," my bottom-line answer to you is: No. I pretty much mean what I originally wrote.

As our sages teach us: "??? ????? ????? – ??? ?????? ??????" ("Everything is in the hands of heaven except for the fear of heaven"). The illusion of control applies to 99.9% of the (mundane) "decisions" that we think we are making for ourselves, mistakenly thinking that these too are part of the tremendous gift of "free will" that we have been given.

But in true, moral, decisions such as these -- between Good and Evil, and between "acting out" and NOT "acting out" -- the free choice, and thus also the sense of "control," is (as much as can be said) ... "real."

I believe that what it means that we have the power of choice in terms of yirah shamaim in the context of our addiction means - that we come to the logical and MORAL conclusion that life is unmanageable and need help desperately. This decision to seek and accept that help can be a case of proper yirah shamaim.

However, in terms of beating our compulsions as they arise in our daily life? We are in this mess because we are powerless. Surely, here and there there may be struggles we can whiteknuckle through but eventually we will fail, right?

We are willing to accept Hashem's sovereignty and dominion. We know he and he alone is truly in charge. This humble acceptance can also be called yira shamaim. In short following the true and trusted program is yira shamaim. However, that we have the power to win each war as it arises is clearly false; proven by our life experience.

Not only is such an attitude wrong but it is arrogant although our yetzer harah has succeeded in fooling us for years into believing that it is indeed pious to believe so.

It is this attitude that delays us from receiving the assistance that truly works.

Definitely -- that is why it is so hard to give up. I have been clean almost seven months but I miss that time more and more. I have many different issues to deal with.

i remember visitin' hell twice....it is not a place i wanna return to right now.

even if I can't find heaven, I won't walk thru Hell with you.....

When i'm in a lust bubble 90,000 reasons are not enough to stop me, nowhere near. The only thing which can stop me is God which is why i need to get on my knees every morning BEFORE the lust attack and ask Hashem for help.

The reasons don't directly help an addict stop. However, it is for these very reasons that he/she seeks out an effective program that will indeed help that individual begin to live properly.

Acting out! acting out! acting out!

Remember this urge that is inside us that push'es us do it! do it!

This is the Yitzer Hora,

So you think to yourself you know what we'll give in now, and leave me alone Yitzer Hora,

Looks like A familyer deal, Right?

Now one's you gave in to him instead of saying Thanks,

He is back again OMG what do you want from me now I already gave you what you asked for?

No No No! that was only the beginning of my plan Shafele, Now comes the real work for me,
Now I will use your fall to DESTROY YOU!!!!

So basically how he works is, The few hours before the fall he is taking over your whole body, makes you do crazy stuff push all the limits to the max [Bt'w if you anytime want to know what you are capable of and what your limits really are try to remember that when there is A will there is A way:}] so you cannot focus on life, kids, marriage, business, and everything that is important to you, Only on the urge.

And then there is the fall, And then after the fall you feel like such A noting that you have no appetite to focus on life, kids, marriage, business, and everything that is important to you,

So it was so-posed to be A good Shaabas, A good Yom Tov, A good Simcha, or just another good productive day at work or in your life and here it is all destrrrrrrrrrroyed!

So, lets take all are kochos together and tell him NO! NO! and one's again NO!

?I will try again and again and again, I will push the limits, I will try every trick, support, and help that hashem gave me and use them to the best of my ability,

I will live my life like A yid, and enjoy it like A yid

And with hashems help I will live A good productive clean life!
