

Help yourself. Help Others

Posted by puredove - 01 Aug 2011 06:56

---

I have only been active on the forum for about a week. Thank God, I have seen the positive effects of how helping and reading about other peoples struggles can ultimately be a huge step to being successful. I have a friend who is having other Tayva issues and is always telling me about them but I never understood or felt that I could give any sort of competent advice. I have been clean for ten days and now realize, that just responding to a persons call for help is sometimes more important than what you actually say. For anyone who needs an extra push to stay clean, realize that, as Jews, Kol Arayvim Zeh BAH Zeh. We constantly looking for someone to help us and for someone to help because our neshamot are all one.

I know that I am a "newbie" but...

In honor of Rosh Chodesh, lets take it upon ourselves, that at least one time over the course of Rosh Chodesh, we should reach out and try to respond to a friend, co-worker, or family member who is looking for advice or someone to talk to and help bring the Nechama closer!

=====
=====

Re: Help yourself. Help Others

Posted by ZemirosShabbos - 01 Aug 2011 14:49

---

beautiful idea!

thanks for sharing that

=====
=====

Re: Help yourself. Help Others

Posted by Izgadin - 13 Jul 2012 17:54

---

How is it going puredove?

ARe you here?

Bira

=====
=====