

See hashem in our stories.

Posted by Pure yid - 11 Sep 2011 07:18

We all have our issues in fighting Amuna struggles, some more some less. (espeacily people who wore molested by a rabbi etc, because they feel if this frum guy did this to me I am done with yiddishkite.) In recovery we must know about the high power so I figured let's bring Down our own stories about what we see clearly g-ds hand in this stuff.

A long time ago I acted out and as I arrived to the place where I was going to act out, I got a bad flat tire in front of the place and it broke the rim and it was a 1200 duller damage. Although I acted out but I got the message.

The lest time I acted out, witch I really hope it's the lest time, I came to the place and a reall chassid walks out the door. I walked away fast and I still don't know if he recognized me or not, is this clear hashem? My dis-ease still took me to a different place but I hope I got the message.

Lest Friday i worked out in the gym and a lady from my hood worked out there and said High to me, I did not intend anything bad but befor I can even think any bad taughts my phone rings and it's her husband he needs a little favor, he almost never calles me. I was going to go over only to tell hear how funny it is that hear husband called, I said to my selff you have no business saying anything, go home now. And so I did.

Any more little stories, bring it on.

=====
=====

Re: See hashem in our stories.

Posted by Tzvi S. - 11 Sep 2011 07:30

Keep on Trucking ! (translation: stay positive)

=====
=====

Re: See hashem in our stories.

Posted by Pure yid - 09 Dec 2011 02:22

I had to go through a lot of pages to find this one I made long ago, and not to open a new one on this topic, but this story is a must. I am going with my wife to therapy and my wife needed support for what I go through. The therapist suggested that my wife opens up to others with the same issue. Being that my wife is shy so my wife asked for a telephone Number because she figured that from this therapist who is very modern, she will get a number from someone outside of the community.

My wife takes the number and signed an agreement not to give out any info and the other women signed as well and they both made up just to exchange first names at least in the beginning.

My wife comes home and makes the call, and she hits send, and she sees the name it's a woman who lives a block away from us and is my wife's friend.....!

My wife didn't know if she should call now or not, I told my wife that it is clear from G-d, Hashem knows how hard it is for you to open up so he made it that you will call your Close friend and now that you know who it is, you have to call.

She already spoke today to that friend, I already spoke to the husband, and recovery rocks.

=====

=====

Re: See hashem in our stories.

Posted by gibbor120 - 09 Dec 2011 14:04

WOW, WOW, WOW! INCREDIBLE! Thanks for sharing that. I have read so many stories of people who were afraid to open up to others and then did. I have read so many happy endings. I am very happy for you and your wife!

=====

=====

Re: See hashem in our stories.

Posted by Pure yid - 11 Dec 2011 07:23

Thanks so much we have made a little meeting in the hood Shabbos already. Major stuff.

=====