The shul was packed

I came in as a guest

Close to four hundred people standing in awe

It was the last moments of a month with the divine

The air was electrified, coming in from the street it hit me like a wall

I wasn't ready being transformed from the mundane to the sublime

The chazzan finished the aleinu and the whole congregation roared

It was the last time to say “hashem is my light and my savior”

To say it when the king is here so close up

For another months eleven we shall only live in its shadow hopefully in its glow

Oh the cry “hope to hashem strengthen your heart and hope again”

It as if the young and old are seeing the future, our survival.

Traversing the road that winds

Through the dark nights of winter

The rebirth at spring

The summer heat and its travails

It is with the hope to hashem, with the clarity of the last day

That we strengthen our heart

And hope again

Feeling a lift in the wings b"h, lets hope it continues, it might be the real thing once and for all. will a day come when i will look back at this as somekind of bump in the road ? or if i keep on falling i might even look back at these struggles as the good old days when things werent so rough yet. kind of scary when you not in control.

no point of being nervous, it only makes you shakey, what's going to happen tomorrow is non of our business, we always need to keep clean FOR TODAY ONLY!

good luck

noce to see you trucking along route

by the way, is that silver shiney moster truck pushing thru traffic, yours?

I suppose so. But giving up lust is a huge step further than just trying to quit the shmutz.

i get your point

i had a few struggles the last day, almost slipped.

didn't, due to a stronger filter

a good filter is a most !!

I had a fall last sunday thats 9 days ago and was able to get right back up using the taphsik method. usualy when i fall i fall again and again, but this time was different. then i had a story with a phone, i needed a new phone so i go to the phone store and come home with what i thought was a simple touch screen, but it was really an android. so first i had to check out if it really is that bad... the next morning i returned it and got a even simpler phone, but im still obsesing cause i want a fancier gadget but cant have one cause im an addict.

MG,

Sounds like you're making great progress.

Dumb phones for smart addicts ;D

Shteig on!

Alex
