

I'm about to FALL!!

Posted by jerusalemsexaddict - 13 Aug 2009 21:26

Allright so as everyone here knows,we on the site often here desperate "call-outs" from people who feel that they are about to fall any minute.Sometimes the emergency units don't have enough time to respond to put out the fire,or are simply unaware of the emergency.

In any case,I am declaring this guardyoueyes's official 911 switchboard.

If there's an emergency of any sort,even a chashash,post here IMMEDIATELY!And well come to your rescue as soon as possible,iy'h.

You can post your emergency here,or give us a link to your thread where you can speak about your emergency.And our volunteers will respond as soon as possible to your calls.

As some people might feel uncomfortable reading women's struggles,I am putting one in the women's section,and whoever feels safe creeping over to the other side of the mechitzah is welcome to go in thereand help.

Wishing everyone the best-Uri

Feel free to email me anytime for a phone number to call. I find this condition too difficult to deal with on my own. Through connecting with others I can come to connect with God and when I connect with God, He can remove the compulsion.

I joined this site to get chizuk

I'm less than 24 hours from my last fall and feeling very low and tempted....

Getting through the first day after (when you're sort of hung over and considering taking 'the hair of the dog' as a remedy) is always the hardest. Especially because you feel that if you don't give in now...you're missing out on shmutz that you won't be able to see later because you don't want to mess up your clean streak

HELP!!!

Ok I'm siting in front of a gemara avodah zara 17a

It says "heficha" she farted

Says Rashi "ruach"

The gemara continues

That she told EBD

That we cannot do teshuvah

The main point is the final point

He assumed responsibility for his actions!!!

That's why he is considered a tanna

Reb elazar ben darduya

Cause he taught. a huge lesson

Ayn hadavar talla ellah bee

I assume responsibility for my actions

It not her fault

Its not the devils fault

Its not the YH's fault

Its not sports illustrateds fault

Its nott the biiboards fault

Its not the slit. The skirt the shirt the etcetcetc

Its my fault

My 2cents..

I don't suggest the ben durdaya route to teshuva. Don't get me wrong, it is certainly effective. The problem is that most people can't do it because as the gemara concludes he died. To on our own try to effect such a large change out of sheer willpower is basically fatal. Making a decision to let God run the show of our life and take it one day at a time surrendering our lust works and is quite a bit safer

You are right

But obviously he is called reb elezar he becomes a tanna

(So I heard from the mashgiach reb mattisyahu salomom shlitta)

Obviously there is a lesson

We become his talmidim

(R')EBD is extreme very extreme

So was his teshuvah

But the lesson gevaldigggggggg!!

I need to do something

Even if the something is surrender

But take personal responsibility!!

To on our own try to effect such a large change out of sheer willpower is basically fatal. Making a decision to let God run the show of our life and take it one day at a time surrendering our lust

OK, so here is some MaHaRa"L-esque stuff for you:

He died. He did Teshuvah, and he died. Which came first, I wonder. Maybe they happenned together. Maybe they always do...

"Ein haTorah nikneiss, ella l'mi sh'meimis es atzmo oleha" Hmmm. What good does the kinyan do for anyone if the guy's dead?! Doesn't it say "ha'omer ein li ella Torah (he will not do mitzvot, just learn Torah) - afilu Torah ein lo!" - and it means even if he is l'Shem Shomayim. But here this guy is dying and will not do any more mitzvot?

OK, maybe not an eiseneh kashyeh, but you get my drift, no?

So we all understand that "mi sh'meimis es atzmo aleha" means something other than physically dropping dead. Right?

I do believe R' EBD physically dropped dead. ChaZa"L say he did. However, the lesson and avodah for us may be different:

We really need to die if we are to do Teshuvah. We need to die if we are to get sober. And we all know what that dying is about, I think. It means that what we want so much that we feel certain that we are going to die without it - we need to eventually give that up. To surrender. Because we must eventually choose between living for lust, or living for ourselves.

Huh? Living for lust? That's easy! That's being selfish! We are great at that, no?

Well, no. Not addicts. We even failed at that! Our selfishness ruins everything for us. And so, we are shocked to discover that we cannot even live for ourselves by giving into lust! Our selfishness doesn't even work! If that doesn't work, we wonder, then what does?! Gevalt, what's

At the end of our shameful, dark, and slimy road we discover that sticking with lust - the thing we trusted most powerfully and privately and consistently of all things - even Hashem - is actually our greatest enemy of all and will ruin our lives until we will lose possession of our selves any more! Uh-oh.

That's the 1st step.

If we are lucky, we turn our backs on our best friend and betray lust. (It betrayed us first, anyhow.) We jump off the roller-coaster ride. The attendant (our body and screwed up brain) screams "Hey! You can't do that! What, are you nuts!?"

And then the people we meet in recovery help us out by counseling us to respond to the attendant that he is right, and to admit to him that we are nuts. He stops hollering. We can't do it alone.

That's the 2nd step.

Then we get a chance to start allowing a Power Greater than ourselves to restore us to sanity - meaning we obviously lost our sanity somewhere along the way. Maybe He can find it for us? We - who were frum - worshiped the wrong stuff, and for a long time...no wonder things got so ugly.

That's the rest of the 2nd step, for me.

Anyway, enough ranting from me...Happy Shovevim!
