what is harder?

being in russia under the iron curtain, between all those kgb spys, keeping yidishkeit dispite the imminent danger, or being in usa/uk/etc... under a constant non stop flow of lust challanges, & immorality screaming from all corners and keeping yidishkeit dispite the hardship???

at face value, the latter is harder, because it's sweet. But I don't wish kgb spies on anyone...

i listened today to yomtov ehrlich yetzias mitzrayim part 1

the niggun of "meine teiyere gloyben"

i was crying and crying i dont even know why maybe its my neshomo longing to a bit of emuneh
