

some musings

I can count on one hand (i think, but 2 hands for sure) the amount of times in my life I've been in front of a computer with unfiltered internet, and the same amount of fingers ia the amount of times I fell flat on my neshama.

I just now by accident realized I'm not filtered for a few minutes, but I have no plans on falling.

Why?, but after all just yesterday I slipped with M. after a solid clean streak and I'm supposed to be depressed and what difference does it make if I get up today or tommorrow. And also, it can be really physically enjoyable.

But no, if I fall then today will not be clean and I will lose everything, if I stand strong - I'm the reason Hashem recreated the world on 10 Adar 5772 (????? ????? ???? ???? ????? ????? ??????)

Take that, Mr. Yetzer Horah. Thanks for doing your job, through your failures I earn my Olam Haboh.

Thanks GYE and the forum for all Iv'e learned and grown from you.

And most importantly, thank you Hashem - ?????? ?????? ?? ????? ??

Gotta go, in 2 minutes my wife will be home and the nisayon will be over.

Thank TZ, I knew you'd be first to respond with a clever line or 2 (uh oh, I wonder how you'll respond to that).

She just called that she'll be a bit late, so If I would theoretically want I would have time to sin.

I was thinking maybe to leave the house, but I know how I work, If I start to feel he's stronger than me now and I have to run away - game over. Thats my name "mefatfait biyitzrfo", it's true that in the big picture I don't stand a chance w/o Hashems help, but in the sublime moment of the present only with my very own bechirah can I connect to His will and access His never ending support.

Gotta go again, now she's really comin'.

Take care guys.

When I'm powerless I am hopeful,

but when I'm powerfull I am hopeless.
