

Extremely Annoying Pop-up Box

Posted by Kedusha - 26 Aug 2009 21:06

After I updated my profile, I am getting this extremely annoying pop-up box that says "Connect to www.guardureyes.com." If I click on anything within the GYE forum, it pops up again, and takes at least 2 clicks to make it go away. This never happened before, and I need to make it stop happening, as it is very frustrating. Can anyone please help me?

Thanks!

All right, so it's not only me. I never had this problem before, until I tried updating my profile with a new e-mail address.

I think the y"h is trying to make it frustrating to access GYE. All the more reason that this technical problem needs to be resolved. Does anyone have any suggestions?

I get it too.

I've found a solution though.

Scroll down

I've made peace with it.

seems to be a consensus here..... I notified the administration as soon as it came up. It tells me my username is not valid. I find that if i click cancel, it'll go away

Well, Tzoras Rabbim Chatzi Nechama. But it never happened to me until today.

I think this is part of the "Zeh l'Umas Zeh." The y"h was annoyed at how many of his plans were foiled by GYE, so he's trying to make it inconvenient to use. That's not going to stop us. However, whoever can solve this problem will have a great Zchus!

I don't know if this is related, but I stopped being able to view my own GYE picture.

Boruch Hashem, the problems appears to have been temporary. No more pop-up boxes, and my GYE picture is back. However, GYE is running much slower than usual, which I presume is also temporary.

R. Guard sent me the following:

I'm very sorry. One of our sites are temporarily down, that is why you are getting the annoying pop-ups. It should be back up and running today. I apologize.

I was getting login popups when opening up the chizuk emails.

Was this done on purpose or is it related to the website problems?
