

Tryin'

Posted by cordnoy - 23 Jun 2013 09:41

Shalom

I am in my 40s married with children

Recently, I decided to get help on a serious level with my addiction .

My mind wanders and the tayva builds.

It would be easy to blame this on the lack of excitement in marriage intimacy, but I had done this at times before marriage, and at times, when marriage bedroom was good, I'd still fall. Perhaps it still is the reason, but marriage stuff is probably not gettin' better anytime soon.

I have more to write, but as this is my first post, id like to hear some suggestions first please.

Thank you so much

You should be used as an example of people usin' GYE for a long time, through good times and not as good times, and still stickin' with it.

Not like those other "old timers" who completely vanished. Maybe some are still fightin' the good fight, but many are probably not.

As they say, "the road to secret old timers' forum is paved with..."

Welcome back SG. Long time no see?

BM, are you inferring that if youre not on gye anymore you probably arent fighting?i strongly disagree with that statement,do you have that opinion based on your own experience?

Nope. He didn't say that. Perhaps reread. Interesting how you inferred that though..

And hello to you too Hakolhevel.

I also didn't not say it...

Partly based on experience, partly based on knowledge, mostly opinion.

Everyone who came here at some point or another came for a reason. If, after a period of having meaningful conversations and developing real or fake relationships, they completely disappear without a trace, one or more of the following is likely:

- 1) They began working another program and found the relationships here unnecessary.
- 2) They do continue their GYE relationships offline (I guess I'll have to ask them privately what's so bad about this place that they can't so much as say hello).
- 3) They never viewed the relationships forged here as anything of substance.
- 4) The friends they made here make them uncomfortable and guilty about their acting out.
- 5) They actively decide to live a lifestyle in direct contrast to what GYE stands for, making it unnecessary to come back.
- 6) Some combination of the above.

Feel free to add and argue.

I would add the following. I have gotten to know many guys here - for real. Many BH gain from GYE what they need, graduate, and move on. They would simply like to put this challenging part of their history behind them. We have to respect their decision. Some come from time to time to update their chart, and to chat with someone new and give some chizuk. Others do not even do that. Being that they got to know real people here, they hold on to some phone numbers and check in from time to time - especially if they forecast a challenging situation (a bochur going home to a house full of unfiltered devices, a married fellow going on a business trip to a potentially triggering location, etc) and want some input how to plan wisely. When someone who developed a real relationship disappears without a trace - does not return phone calls, emails, etc., it can mean that unfortunately he slipped back in to bad behaviors and is too embarrassed to come forward, or his wife found out what was going on and said "you graduated - let's bury it", or maybe he is unfortunetely stranded on an island without phone service.....

very well written, notice HHM wrote "when someone who developed a real relationship disappears without a trace etc.can mean that unfortunately he slipped back in to bad behaviors etc."

while BM wrote someone who left gye probably isnt fighting the fight anymore,how dare BM say that?! what is he a navi?! hey im cool with people not being able to admit that they wrote something inaccurate, it takes a Big Man to do that,maybe(or probably) BM doesnt fall into that category.

I still don't see it, but more importantly, in keeping this a safe place for all to grow - please keep personal insults and attacks off of this forum. We are here to get sober, not pick fights over who said what. That's for your mentor/sponsor/ step 4 or diary...

i am referring to the post to Big Moish which i do not want to quote.

Thank you

i guess ill have to keep my Big Mouth shut next time (even if im right),but i guess sg's message is also for BM not to voice his own baseless opinion when he is insulting 100's of gye old timers @Sleepy: What's your agenda exactly?

1) Who exactly would get insulted by his words? The people who aren't here?

2) What he meant was, the people who were still struggling when they disappeared. There's no logical reason to assume they had a miraculous recovery overnight.

3) Is that the point he was trying to make, or is that nitpicking and learning up his post like a Rash"i?

4) Like SG wrote. This is a place of recovery, friendship and camaraderie. Let's try not to create an atmosphere where people must be concerned that every word they share, will be dissected and abused.

dont mean to dissect your words, you post very nicely, but are you inferring that if someone leaves gye and recovers , it has to be a miracle?

i was pm'd to please stop hijacking, so
