

Tryin'

Shalom

I am in my 40s married with children

Recently, I decided to get help on a serious level with my addiction .

My mind wanders and the tayva builds.

It would be easy to blame this on the lack of excitement in marriage intimacy, but I had done this at times before marriage, and at times, when marriage bedroom was good, I'd still fall. Perhaps it still is the reason, but marriage stuff is probably not gettin' better anytime soon.

I have more to write, but as this is my first post, id like to hear some suggestions first please.

Thank you so much

C

Random question: what would have been so bad if God created everyone handsome, gorgeous and attractive?

End rant

God did create everyone handsome, gorgeous and attractive...to someone

Il thought someone would say that.

Question: do you actually believe that?

I differ, although being that people here are so kind, I don't feel the need to beg.

Why does everybody have to be gorgeous/handsome? It's like saying that one can't be gay unless he chooses to, because otherwise, why would it be assur to act out on that?

Sometimes, Hashem makes things happen in this world that don't fit our reality. Some people are just ugly. Like Shvartza Wolf.

In a way.

I know a rabbi who's really ugly. He married someone who's really ugly. But they're beautiful to each other, perhaps.

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder" proverbbeauty cannot be judged objectively, for what one person finds beautiful or admirable may not appeal to another.

Like, is the balance necessary?

If all people would be attractive, would people stop havin' relations with their spouses, God forbid?

Would free will be removed?

In the olden days, bein' fat was optimum; d'ya think that will come back (like ties)?

Forl those who have insomnia (see threads here and there....I don't know how to make those words bluel; actually, I do), these are good question to ponder.

What would it matter if fat comes back into style, for us nothing would change except the last word in this sentence - Does this make me look thin?

If fat comes back into style, there is more (people) to lust after, includin' the (so-called) permitted lust.

Is it just me, or does anyone else have this sneaking feeling we're supposed to believe it is true, or at least wish it were true.

Maybe it's fair to say that everyone is attractive someone, some of the time. John Gray has a story about that.

I think it is both true and not true. At first glance, it is very hard to imagine that someone finds the people who are not attractive attractive. However, I think that for many people as they get to know someone and start to see their essence, they can even see beauty on the outside as well. I'm sure we all have people we met but we thought were very ugly in the beginning but then when you got to know them or know their smile you thought that they are all of a sudden much more beautiful.
