

On line during Chol Hamoed?

Posted by Momo - 01 Oct 2009 07:05

There's a good chance I will have to work part of chol hamoed this year.

I was wondering if anyone else is also planning on being online during chol hamoed or if I'll be Sorry, I forgot now is your season.

all alone.

Just imagine all Yidden bussy with mitsvos rushing around.

Momo,

I won't be online most of the time. But, please feel free to call me whenever you want. And DON'T feel bad calling me. and DON'T wait for a lustful moment to arrive. You can call me to just say Hi. And if you don't call me, I will call you.

Chag Sameach,

I'm not sure whether or not I'll be online.

I plan to check my e-mails, so you can contact me by PM.

GYE is now running out of our Sukka (I moved the office into the Sukka since Chol Hamo'ed is a whole week long)! Problem is, my whole family feels at home here too, so with kids climbing on my head and fighting with each other, and babies crying, it's hard to hear all the posts ;D

Moadim lesimcha!

Es chatai ani azkir hayom... I remember last year succos. It followed a marathon of acting out throughtout elul, the asere yemei teshuva and the days in between yk and succos.I actually recall taking my phone into the succah with me and watching videos of

This year succos comes after the best elul of my life, the best aseres yemei teshuva, a brief fall which I immediately pulled myself (with everyones help on the forum) back on track and great days since. WOW WOW WOW. I owe my life to GUE and all my frends here. This year I will with His help continue to act correctly and not act out on my addction and truly dance with joy on smchas torah feeling proud of the direction my life is moving in as opposed to despondent and hopeless and guilty.

OTR,

Your post gives new meaning to "B'makom she'baalei Teshuva Omdim, ein Tzaddikim Gemurim Yecholim Laamod."

OTR

Don't abandon your old stuff. as you are closing in on Tshuva M'ahave and then all the old stuff will be turned into merits!

A1 holy friend!
