

Help on the Phone

Posted by Holy Yid - 08 Oct 2009 17:57

For all those of you who would like to be in touch by phone but don't feel comfortable with other members having your number I have a suggestion.

Google has a free service called Google Voice. They assign you another phone number that rings on your existing number. This way we can have a number for the GUE to call and we don't have worry about it. Note: right now it only works on USA numbers.

Here is the link

To clarify, the address is voice.google.com. To get around the USA only restriction, use HOTspot shield to sign up.
