

Guard Your Eyes pamphlet?

Posted by Eye.nonymous - 12 Oct 2009 13:32

I have seen pamphlets around that address certain issues that are otherwise neglected, or at least not dealt with in a comprehensive manner. Years ago there was one with Winnie the Poo telling BT students how to "get deeper into Yiddishkeit without going off the deep end," or something like that. And similar pamphlets for the religious--dealing with family, or answering question. Some pamphlets are for a wider audience, "why don't you learn Shaas already, just follow this simple program." You've probably seen one of those.

I was wondering:

1. If such a pamphlet might be helpful for people with our struggle.

And, if so,

2. What are the absolute main points that it should include? (in addition to, "visit the GUE forum".)

I thought that was the purpose of the "handbooks" - or do you mean something much shorter?

There is a need for a book. To help the masses.

Maybe with a plain brown cover so people will not be embarrassed to buy it.

(joking).

one day.

Eye,

I was thinking about this one...

And almost posted here earlier,

but then didn't feel I had what to add.

Either way, I'm not sure there is much more to say than go check out the GYE website.

I think that is a huge first step.

How much else can we say effectively on a piece of paper or two?

I'd think it's also important for the paper to be noticeable.

People don't see everything they see if you know what I mean.

This is a great idea... It's one of the things we hope to do when we have more donations and keep growing Be"n... It will happen. Don't worry. :D
