Maybe have more Kavanna in the Tfilah

????????? ????? ????? ??? ...?????...?????...????? ??... ?

but i doubt that this is what Dov means he means and talks about A Tfila for Her Health, Mental and Social Etc.

Maybe this will be useful to you? I'm new here. I've set myself to read aloud each day one Principle and one Tool, in order. Reading it aloud helps me slow down and pay attention.

This is what I read on the discussion of Tool 3 (I think): As someone who is working the 12 Steps once wrote:"Today, the fight is much easier for me. When I have urges, I admit powerlessness, acknowledge that Hashem is the only One that can - and will - help me, and I ask Hashem to remove the lust from me. I am frankly surprised by how much better this works than fighting the urges head on".

I have a constant problem because my work takes me to schools and nursing homes in the non-Jewish community, where most staff are female. Today, I was at a nursing home, writing my visit note, when I glanced up and noticed that of the 6 staffers 10 feet away from me, 5 were female...and young. I mentally asked HaShem to take away my improper thoughts. It worked instantly.

Best of luck to you and all of us.

i need you to compose a tefileh for my poor soul

a prayer to god, in which i pray for that wonder women that everything should be good and perfect for her, in every aspect of her life who knows the real truth?

1 thing is that i know for sure...

for sure life is much easier and less stress without her being in it (not every second scared that ill be caught or so) even its hard to avoid, and to look away.....

so let put it that way:

hard to live all without her, but much much harder with her, believe me guys but the thing is when the addiction works up, we forget the real emes so we have to avoid the addiction from working up, for any price how can we do that? any idea?

by giving up our lives thoughts and fantasies to hashem and realizing that he can wants and will take these nissyons from us IF we give them to him
