hi guys, i don't want to post in my old forum because no one will read it so I am posting a new post to get your attention okay so basically 10 minutes ago i was going to go to a massage parlor to get a "massage" plus a bit more...I am really struggling with this issue. What deterred me was the money ($100/hr) dont get me wring, im a college student and I am make no money at all so this was a tough choice for me. I knew I could buy plenty of stuff for that amount of money that are valuable (sefarim, clothing, gifts, tzedakah) and yet I was really gonna go.

You know how I stopped myself? Guess?

I masturbated...once one is done with that, he is totally shut off and not interested in women for a bit...im sure u know what i mean

SOOO, thats really messed up...I need help with this prostitute issue..it will leak into my marriage, right? Besides the fact that it costs a whole lot of money...someone please help me and if someone with experience has gone thru this, please please please private message me.

It is definitely helpful. Thanks for the reality check. Truth is I am a bit uncomfortable using the words 'I am an addict'. I guess the way I feel is that I'm on the fence about whether I have "The Problem", but I'm pretty sure I want The Solution Yisro - even though he was a ba'al Teshuva and a ger tzedek - was sent home before matan Torah (according to many rishonim) and could not be there for it...because he was not in the enslavement with the other Jews. He couldn't get the sweet goodies without first having been in the toilet with the rest of us.

It's not likely that anyone can get the Solution, if you don't have the Problem.

And acting the way those who admit they have the problem act, is a real good segulah for getting the same goodies that they get in their recovery. I am not foretelling, just sharing an observation you can ignore, disagree with, or accept and then just live with.

'nuff said
