I have the same problem what I did I went thru all the emails and made unsubscribe I used to get about 200 spam emails a day I checked now I got 37

You can unsubscribe slowly one day 20 email a lot of emails are going from one company so when you make unsubscribe probably you will get rid from a few

Unsubscribe means opening the emails which you DONT want to do

Try drag any such emails into the junk / spam folder

Each email address you drag into junk, in future these will automatically be moved into the junk folder as soon as arrives by gmail automation

im not by a PC now, but I think you can also right click a individual email before opening it, and have option of 'report spam' 'unsubscribe', which will block future mail from that address

I think its better to unsubscribe once for all then getting inappropriate emails evrey day when its in spam you still have access to it

Reb Simcha,

can you be more specific so we can help

SPAM

1- From multiple email addresses?

2- Are they addressed to you, or 'undisclosed recipients'?

only to undisclosed recipients?Block Emails Addressed to "Undisclosed Recipients" in Gmail

- Log into you Gmail account.
2. Click Settings.
  3. Click Filters and Blocked Addresses
  4. Enter "Undisclosed recipients" in the "To" field. Click "Next Step."
  5. Select "Delete It." Click "Create Filter."

Does that work?

ok, i got to settings. i clicked filters and blocked addresses, but i dont see the "to" field. All I see is "the following filters are applied to all incoming mail..."

Sorry for being so computer illeterate. Funny, when I am acting out, I figure it all out...
