

A New Resolution

Posted by GoodSoul - 11 Oct 2016 12:01

I am making a few resolutions, bli neder, for the new year, and one of them is to make one post about my own journey and respond to one other post every day. I hope this will help keep me connected to sober thinking and help me to gradually wean myself off lust actions.

Shana Tova to all.

I need something new, different, and better than the usual ideas

Shucks, that sounds lonely. You have my sympathy.

I'm not rich enough to keep experimenting with therapists until I find the one who will work for me. Still working on my first billion.

Everyone is throwing around a lot of suggestions, and then saying just keep trying stuff until something works. I don't find that helpful or encouraging. Maybe other people do.
