I slipped once today and once yesterday so I'm thinking of the taphsic method. I'm at 15 days so I can't fall now. I figured out the first part - exercise for fifteen minutes. Probably push-ups or some other exercise that I can barely do to save my life. I'm just not sure about the knas parts.

I made a little chart to keep track of these 2 weeks.

I went to bed again on time. And learned night seder for the first time in over a month!!

And I learned a daf of Gemara, that I wouldn't have found the time for. So, this is already having VERY positive effects.

The urge to watch stupids is still there, but it's mainly out of sight, out of mind.

I wrote a long email, which means this will be short and sweet (relative to my usual posts).

My family is still "catching up to me": having dinner and family time together when I come home, since for so long, I have pacified myself with the computer.

I came home, sat at the table, and nobody was ready. Nobody was there.

I think they are a bit in shock that I am seriously doing this.

Dinner and quality family time (real life) is way better than watching stupids.

I tried a frum suspense/thriller book, but couldn't take how bad it was after 20 pages.

Any suggestions? I read a Mishpacha in bed, but not too impressed with that either.

In short this was a slip as I was in bad mood so I googled something innocuous wondering if something inappropriate would pop up which eventually did upon which I immediately Xed out of it and turned off the computer that I was using and didn't touch my phone for the next half hour. If it happens again than it's a fall cuz then I'm just using it as excuse to get around my gedarim.

Bout the Knas part, i had the same feeling before i started the method, then i realised that the reason im afraid to do the Knas is because im not 100% sure ill be able to pass it, and that small % is what makes me fall, as i havent got the full belief/trust in myself, one i realised that it was much easier, and i started the TaPHSiC Method, still working now B"h - 22 days clean!

Hello to all of you

Started to feel the heat now, bout 3 weeks that i didnt feel it, so the first thing im doing is announce it here!

Hi Shua, nice thing thinking of going down my line

Got the TaPHSiC fence as well to pass! but BEH we will succeed over the YH, and will not break it!!!!!!

WS,

~~s??? p?? ??????d ?l??In?????d ?ou op l??no??l?~~, true to my word I gave you a Karma. It means a lot to me that the whole ganze fashtunkene forum liked your chaya who was sticking his tongue out at me, but you still did me this personal favor. A much more appealing picture, especially since the base can look like snowy ice
