Hi everyone baruch hashem I'm 21 days clean. i have installed filters been posting a lot on GYE and have made a few friends who i keep in touch with. One of the tools i use a lot is Linkedin to be honest i don't think so far it really makes a difference in my job right now it's just a way for me to waste time and maybe in the future it might be helpful. but while browsing the feed i do sometimes take a double look at girls profile pictures baruch hashem just that but i will like to stop even that. How have fellow GYE members dealt with Linkedin? If i delete my profile i will lose all my endorsment's ETC?

I Baruch Hashem got rid of Whatsapp right when i started my current streak and i also was pretty scared but baruch hashem i've had 0 regrets since then to be honest it's been quite liberating not getting tonz of trash so maybe i should do the same with Linkedin? Looking for some thoughts on the topic!

Love Yankel

You could always block all images coming in from webpages, including linkedin. This will mean you can use linkedin for connecting with people without being tempted by the pictures. I am unsure what browser you use, but you could research it yourself.
