

Proactive Porn Prevention

Posted by lifebound - 16 Feb 2018 04:02

---

In today's double-chai Chizuk email, there was a link to a blogpost called "Victory on Aisle 3":

This link will take you to a site outside of GYE Network. While we vetted it and found it to contain no objectionable imagery, reader discretion is advised.

VICTORY ON ISLE 3

Great blog entry about a pro-active mom and her porn-proof kids.

That led me to the Protect Young Minds website and their Good Pictures Bad Pictures books.

Which got me thinking, has anyone checked out these books for possible usage in the Jewish community at large? Internet is a fact of life for current and future generations. Instead of stigmatizing and sweeping the porn issue under the rug, might it be helpful to address it more proactively?

Just wanted to provoke some discussion, hear what you all think.

=====
=====

Re: Proactive Porn Prevention

Posted by cordnoy - 27 May 2018 15:06

---

lifebound wrote on 16 Feb 2018 04:02:

In today's double-chai Chizuk email, there was a link to a blogpost called "Victory on Aisle 3":

This link will take you to a site outside of GYE Network. While we vetted it and found it to contain no objectionable imagery, reader discretion is advised.

VICTORY ON ISLE 3

Great blog entry about a pro-active mom and her porn-proof kids.

That led me to the Protect Young Minds website and their Good Pictures Bad Pictures books.

Which got me thinking, has anyone checked out these books for possible usage in the Jewish community at large? Internet is a fact of life for current and future generations. Instead of stigmatizing and sweeping the porn issue under the rug, might it be helpful to address it more proactively?

Just wanted to provoke some discussion, hear what you all think.

I think it needs to start (or restart) on a grassroots level. In your shul, school or local chapter/group. I think the big guns will shy away from this (and perhaps they are right). Try your Rav or your school's principal. See what they say. I believe that proactivity is a good thin'.

God speed!

=====

=====