

Driving and looking

Posted by WannabeFree - 09 May 2018 21:14

I have a problem with looking at women while driving. Sometimes it may be possible to take a different route, but often enough not. A lot of the time I legitimately need to look where I'm going or when stopping at a pedestrian crossing. Admittedly I struggle with this big time regardless, but while driving it is that much more difficult. Any ideas?

Amen!

sorry, no ideas from me, dont drive,not yet at least

I almost crashed twice today. Once on account of my phone, and the second on account of...
ahem.... the weather.
