There is No Better Time Than Now
Posted by Holy Yid - 09 Apr 2012 09:20

_____

I fell twice tonight. Untill a few minites ago I did not want to fall again but I did not care not to. I just re-read my first thread about my first trip to 90 day and that inspired my to get back on the wagon.

i now have many more tools than I did then. I know soooo much better what to do BUT I did not have the same motivation.

i can waste hours online that i could spend in 1000 better ways.

I will not bore you with my sad feelings of falling right after the seder. If I fell I was not really in recovery.

I know the real first step is to realize I am WASTING my life away here. and then to start living for Hashem. This is a tall order but I do not have any other options right now.

BTW I do miss that Guard wont post responses like he used to in the old days.

==========