So I've heard that mediation can really help with getting sober and i was wondering if anyone knows exactly how this works and is done?

I know that meditation in Judaism must be done the correct way to get the correct spiritual benefits.

Rabbi Gutman Locks has videos on this on youtube.

I do not know how meditation can help staying sober.

But I have found that MINDFULNESS has helped me.

When I get the urge to fall, I treat each urge like a cloud, a thought, which can be put in a "box" and will soon enough blow away on the wind.

Rather than something I have to act on.

There are a few articles which can be found from this link
