

Cheating confession

Posted by Trouble - 24 Sep 2019 13:18

I have been asked by a dear friend to perhaps start this thread.

If you think it's not beneficial, ignore it.

If you think it's detrimental, let the mods know (sadly, they have my number).

If you think it's beneficial, then let us know.

This is a thread for fellows who are/were married and have cheated (whatever the definition is) on their spouse.

So here goes:

I have cheated.

1. Trouble
2. Confession
3. Camaraderie
4. Discussion
5. Repentance

Not necessarily in that order

I cheated. And camraderie would be the toelles for me.... Not counting porn, emotional flings are cheating as are physical interactions if the spouse is unaware and therefore can not be said to agree. . And yeh I'd see this as a balle batims forum thread. Cuz it only applies to married.

Ilm not an expert on the rules of cheating ,but it seems that if the wife agrees to porn watching (?!) it's not cheating,there may be other issues.....(that might require a different thread)

Unmarrieds say "If only I was married, it would be bliss with 'pas besalo'".

This language of this thread is clean (um mr trouble - I'm not stoking nothing), so I believe it should stay right where it is.

I'm a cheat a liar and a thief.

The miracle is that everything can be repaired with the right actions and kavana.

My wife knows pretty much all of my story, including the fact that i visited prostitutes for most of the first 17 years of our marriage.

Building a relationship based on transparency and honesty has been the biggest miracle i have seen in the past few years.

What is considered cheating? feeling emotionally attached to someone which is not your wife?
Even without the s*x?Or cheating is only s*x?

I am not an expert, but I think that there is huge difference between feeling emotionally attached to someone, or actively being in an emotionally attached relationship.

When I personally feel attached to someone it doesn't mean that he/she feels the same, but when we're both involved in an emotional relationship, even if there is NO sex involved, I believe it would be considered cheating.

Now days is very common what's called cybersex and it's considered cheating without even bodies being touched.

For me, what ever I need to hide from wife would/should be considered cheating.

One of the tools that helped me break free was to stop lying and hiding from my wife. If I cant share it with her, probably I should not have done it.

Btw' having sex with someone besides your partner is considered adultery.
