

Dating-disclosure

Posted by P1200634 - 17 Apr 2020 19:27

Hi guys, does anyone have some experience with disclosure while dating that they could share (what to say, at what point, how to say it, reactions etc..). It would be greatly appreciated to get some insight into how it's done, because it seems like it is something that is necessary to do. Good Shabbos

Thank you, I've read that before but that wasn't exactly what I was looking for. My question wasn't if I should or not, I just wanted to hear about other peoples experiences of disclosing to see how it is done and how to deal with the immediate and longer term ramifications.

I dated someone recently, and my streak went about from the moment I met her to a few days after our last date (I ended it).

Had temptations during, but the thought of her actually get me to stop.

Because of that, I didn't say anything..

Can you explain why you are sure you must disclose?

Also, what exactly are you disclosing? addiction? or just "regular" porn use?
