Find a physical hobby, go running, lift weights, go shopping for something that you can start collecting something that can be publicly displayed

DONT FIGHT IT!!

This happens to the best of us.

They call it AI

Awol Intelligence

I found for myself that it helps to fill the artificial gap with something of equal or better intelligence value - of course it must be engaging.

What's yours?

I can totally relate. I got into watching TV shows a couple of years ago. I tried to make sure to only watch mostly clean ones (if such a thing exists...) and they weren't triggering directly to me. (Indirectly the whole watching was affecting me and causing me to fall more easily, I need to get back in to no watching entertainment videos even if it is clean, no women, etc...)

Right after I was mekabel to stop watching, a certain series came out with a final episode, it was murder not to watch it. I pushed it off for months, and when I finally gave in, I was disappointed. I thought the plot line would finish differently.

Markz nailed it, don't try to fight watching it, fill your head up with serious stuff rather than keeping on thinking I wish I can watch XYZ...

LK apparently your post was hacked by UFI (Unidentified Fake Intelligence).

I did not say "fill your head up with serious stuff". There's a big difference. Please re-read my
