It hurts when u miss someone...u know there are days when I still miss her (she who is my password to this site and every email account I have)...and I'm happily married almost 10yr and I still miss her sometimes...I think what I really miss though is just me then...I miss my youth...and the recklessness I was allowed...and I thank hashem for everything he has given me today...so u miss him...or u miss chatting...nu this is life kid....much better things await moving forward...

i despise the word frum almost as much as i do the word orthodox...we are not frum we are not orthodox we are jews...end of story...dont you realize that by legitimizing labels such as frum or the new frum- "heimish"- then you are also legitimizing labels such as conservative and reform...you are sanctifying the idea that there are different forms of valid judaism...there isnt...if someone wants me to describe my level of practice, i say i am an observant jew...

Agreeing with you twice in one day?? This just cant be!! UMmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmm oh i found something. I actually feel that your better described as heimish than observant. :D :D :D :D :D :D :D :D
