

????? ?' ??? - Trigger

It's a day after ?' ???.

Over the past 9 days there were many restrictions, a long fast, forcing yourself to shed a tear or two during the boring ?????... you felt tied, bit down, and yucky.

Finally you feel like a free man again!

Cut your hair. Do your beard. Take that long awaited, long hot yum shower...

You're busy with intense "body-care"...

BANG! The YH strikes! "Just do it... don't think too much... its Bein Hazmanim... release all the stress... have fun... soon its Elul and you don't want to be doing this then..."

Anyone relates to this ????? ?' ??? struggle?

I can see it happening and I'm getting worried...

Together let's beat the YH this year! Who's in it with me?

If you'd like to join me in this 1 day challenge, please click the "Thank You" button on this post.

On ??? ? I'll write a new post "Mission Accomplished" and anyone who managed to stay clean on the day after Tisha Be'av will click the "Thank you" button on that post too...

Ready to hear a "quick fix"...?

Private hot showers aside, there's also the problem to the whole family fighting who gets to shower first, and who finished all the hot water...

Just take that first shower at the mikva. Unlimited hot water ( where i go it's unlimmited hot water ) and a 'supervised' setting [assuming you've never been triggered there b4 - no offense and plz do not try this if you have problems with urges at the mikva ]

Good idea. But if you've just cut your hair you'll likely leave behind some nice amount of hair floating in the mikva...

Can I join without clicking the Thank You?

Will it even be counted if I abstain without clicking?

Will Hashem know?

Cuz if not, I might as well go watch porn, what with missing the last call and such.

Thompson, we love you dearly.. and thanks for bringing in some humor into the forums..

But you missed the point. Clicking the thank you button isn't for yourself. It's for us. It's a support for others. Because when we're together in a battle then it's easier to win our enemy!!

Yasher koach for bringing that up.

You can get a free ebook of the English version on the GYE website here

Agav, that book contains some of the most interesting stories of gedolim I've ever heard, including this gem about Rav Aharon Kotler:

On one occasion, it just so happened that Rav Aharon Kotler, ztz"l, inadvertently saw something unsuitable when turning a corner. His anguished reaction was to lean against a wall and weep. His citadel had been breached. "Ribono Shel Olam" he cried, "You took away so, so many of our brothers and sisters in the holocaust. Why did You leave me alive?" He would have preferred death at the hands of the Nazis rather than life in America if that meant sullied eyes.

Tzarich iyun katan.

The rest of the book is great.

Just sharing a great Chizzuk i felt when saying Kinna 23 which describes the story of the son and daughter of Rabbi Yishmoel who were captured and put in the same dark cell at night...

The boy said ??? ????? ??? ?????? ??? ?????. The girl said ?? ?????? ??? ????? ?????...

Young teeangers with such a pure ??????... This is the way a Yid refrains from an ??????. We are ??? ?????? and just don't do these things. We live a higher life. And we must make sure to give this "Stoltz" over to our children and Talmidim...

Bringing forward this thread from last year, as we're approaching Tisha Be'Av.

Together let's keep strong and not fall for the YH's tricks on the following day when we're busy with body care...
