

Come to my wedding.... 6 PEOPLE COMING already!

Posted by Will - 17 Jan 2010 00:06

Well guys, its that one time in my life. I've had a pretty rough history (you can look up some of my previous posts) and I've won some and lost some. But, Baruch Hashem, it seems like I'm making headway...I'm moving forward to the next stage of my life...a stage that can begin pure, remain pure, and end pure...and I hope to G-d, with all my heart, that I have the strength and willpower to stay strong and strengthen others. I truly feel that I would not be where I am today if it wasn't for the amazing chevra on this forum. I would be lagging somewhere far behind where I am- feeling bad about myself, not dealing proactively, and most likely not stepping forward. I have all of you to thank for my progress.

With that I must ask you, with the utmost sincerity, to come to my wedding IY"H in Yerushalayim. Please...please come. I would love it if you would come over, give me a hearty hug, and whisper "Mazel Tov Will!!" in my ear. If you wouldn't feel comfortable doing that, just come to the chuppah or dancing or both. If you'd like to sit and eat, please tell me so I can add a spot. There are plenty of people on my kallah's side that I dont know so you can easily blend in (there will also be the entire spectrum of Jew present..from Chareidi, to Tzioni, to Carlebach...no one will know if you don't want them to!).

The kedusha of a few GYE guys in a single room would be easily felt...and it would add so much to my simcha. I feel amazing just THINKING about how incredible it would for this to happen.

Please PM me if you'll be in Yerushalayim in the next 10 days...it would truly mean so much if you came.

Love,

Will

WOW Will!

First of all Mazal Tov. You are a true warrior and a great person. You are taking this whole GYE connection thing to a completely new level. You are basically opening your house to anyone that wants to share in your simcha. Keep it up heilega brother. You're on your way to stardom.

Shavua Tov

PS. I won't be in Yerushalayim so I can't make it

Maybe I'm getting reckless in my old age, but if I was in Israel, I would come. I checked out this thread hoping that the wedding would be in America....

I hope that Moshiach will come in the next few days, so that I can make it, but otherwise...I'll be there in spirit! Your invitation means so much to me, it really does - thank you for putting a huge smile on my face!

Sorry but I'm stuck in a cesspool called New York City.

Wish I could be there.

Mazal Tov!

MAZAL TOV!!!

May Ha-shem may all of your dreams and tefillos come true, and may your home be filled with Kedusha and Tahara for ever and ever!!!!

I wish I could be there, but the NY-Jerusalem bus broke down a few weeks ago, something about an alcoholic truck driver drinking Woodford who crashed into it...

So I will have to shout my MAZAL TOV WILL! from right here...

MAZAL TOV WILL!!

Wow, thank you all for your wishes and warmth...its what makes this chevra so special.

I hate that a lot of you can't be there, but Baruch Hashem, already 4 people have sent me PM'S!!!

Anyone else that will be in Yerushalayim within a week, PLEASE PM me! I would LOVE for you guys to be there. I WISH Guard would somehow make a stealthy entrance....

All the best wishes in the world Will.

May you be zoche to build a bayis neeman b'yisael and may all nisyanos be through smachos only.

For those who are wondering, "Smachos" is actually the correct pronunciation (not "Simchos").

I will be there in spirit

(make sure to have lots of spirit - especially Woodford!) ;D

The wedding day is a clean slate. Chazal learn out from the pasuk "Esav married Machalas bas Yishmael" that Hashem erases our sins when we get married.

You have GYE now, so if there's a WILL (and a Mrs.Will), there's a WAY ;D

Make sure to keep it clean.

Who do you think is being Mesader Kedushin? ;D
