

Ideas for a 90-day party?

Posted by silentbattle - 19 Jan 2010 17:05

My first 90-day mark is coming up soon (see my thread, where I discuss my two counts), and I'm looking for ideas. Ideally, I'd like to get together with some people from here. I'm thinking about getting a bottle of Woodford (or Basil H, if Bardy lets), if there are some people to share it with - I don't drink very much.

Also looking for suggestions on location...

KG - Before...why?

SE - 1) Good idea, any recommendations on how to do that?

2) Not that good just yet!

3) Hm...

chey KG, we don't even 'bench chodesh' till 2 weeks later?! Where are you running to!

SHeesh, when chazal said to start learning hilchos pesach, they intended to be marbitz torah not to be mevateil it!

I have a mashgiach job for pesach which I need to start around then.

Besides, I'll probably be doing more learning then - than I am now.

SE, we're trying to help him get out of the house, not have him feel good about learning a few

I'd love to have you at my celebration, if there is one...maybe I'll push it off a bit, that could work. We're counting chickens before they hatch, true, but even scrambled eggs taste great!

Were not counting eggs before they hatch. Every day is gold. Every minute for that matter. We should be making a party of every day we beat the yh in any way we did it.

Good shabbos my bro. And i think its due time you take a vacation here in EY. If you do ill throw you a party big time!! Just ask em boyz who were here already.
