

new start

i have had a post going on the wall of honor forum, it prob should be here, if any cares it is rehab-my-site.com/guardureyes/forum/index.php?topic=790.0

i would move but dont know if thats even possible.

i have not posted anything in months. i have been reading the emails everyday, kind of spinning the wheels, had ups and downs (most of you know what i mean). but i've been meaning to start posting again, bc i know from other and from personal experience, that posting frequently and being involved here is very important. i knew just finally posting something might help me get back into the swing of things. i have done some good things since my last posts, i got an accountability partner, and installed a filter on my work computer. but it has been full of bad things too. so hopefully i will be around here more.

Glad to have you back! I'll try to read your old thread when I have a few minutes spare...

Rock on - sounds like you've been working hard, and you're planning on growing even more. That's great!
