just droppin a line to say hi. havent been here in a while, to sunken in a deep dark place with no light in sight.

whatever. this is the tormented life i lead and probably will lead for a long time.

peace onto you fighters!

Perhaps if you stay here, we can help bring light into your dark places...or at least hold your hand as you walk in the dark.

Dear fightingyid,

I would like you to read chizuk e-mail #761. Can you?

Let me know if it talks to you.

Thanks.

the good news about being in the DARK is it provides a good backdrop for the LIGHT.

think about it - if someone were to light a match in a completely lit up room, would anyone notice it?

matter of fact they might even follow your lead, and stay close behind you and climb out too sometimes when one is fighting a battle and one opponent is getting beat down real and out from the bottom he just surges up with every ounce of strength he has left and gives a mighty BATTLE CRY! a roar that will make you innards shake. That what i need, i need the battle cry from hell to bring me out so join with me!!!

Listen giggle in the face of your YH

Why? Cause eventually you "will" crawl out

You will get better

You will break free

So giggle now and use it as a deposit for your "eventual" freedom.

Hint hint : the second you giggle it will enable you to feel a tiny taste of freedom. You might like what you taste

Bards

Tell your self that this giggle
