

Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED

Posted by Holy Yid - 05 Oct 2010 20:02

Many of us feel that once we post a few times the crew moves on to new people.

Does anyone have ideas how to help this situation?

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED

Posted by Yosef Hatzadik - 08 Oct 2010 18:48

Ya know? that is a great idea!

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED

Posted by Yosef Hatzadik - 08 Oct 2010 18:49

Nah, it isn't such a good idea. It may get quite boring after a very short while.

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED

Posted by Yosef Hatzadik - 08 Oct 2010 18:51

Hey, you just reminded me about the little old lady who complained to her therapist that noone remembered her birthday. She only received one birthday card.

"So someone did remember after all," the therapist replied.

"No," she retorted, "I sent that one to myself."

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by Yosef Hatzadik - 08 Oct 2010 18:52

;D ;D ;D

That was funny!

Thanx for the joke!

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by Yosef Hatzadik - 08 Oct 2010 18:53

Well??

Do we all agree that conversations with self are not ideal???

:-[:-X :-[:-X :-[:-X

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by anongye - 08 Oct 2010 19:14

No. I think it is a good idea. Because I read through your joke and thanks for the joke without realizing that it was the same person who wrote all those posts. It makes it look like an active bored board.

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by Shteeble - 08 Oct 2010 20:06

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by Holy Yid - 08 Oct 2010 20:18

back to topic, how about small groups?

=====
=====

Boy, if i would reply to my own posts i would be a hero member by now!
Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by Shteeble - 08 Oct 2010 21:26

they can't be too small, or it would take too long to get an anxiously awaited reply. unless of course you reply to yourself, then you would be able to keep the group very very small.

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by jewinpain - 08 Oct 2010 21:41

I got an idea, but will have to ask rabbi guard if that's possible from the technical part of it, this is what I think, if every new thread get posted in a section called, "New thread" or somtin alike, I'm not very creative with naming, and as soon as the thread gets 50 replies its either pushed by itself outta there, (well, were will it go)?? Probably will have to be done manually some1 will be in charge to move it to its designated section, (that's anyways a good idea, cuz newcomers who r not familiar with all the sections, can sometimes make an intro in the WOH, or break free in the introduce urself section, and for that 1 section called "new threads" etc. We should make an extra effort to check in there every day & respond to the new topics, this will help not just the new comers, but also the veterans, who sometime feel ignored when opening a new thread for a problem they wana address

Just a thought of JIP erev shabbos kodesh Noach

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED

Posted by Holy Yid - 10 Oct 2010 01:41

jewinpain wrote on 08 Oct 2010 21:41:

I got an idea, but will have to ask rabbi guard if that's possible from the technical part of it, this is what I think, if every new thread get posted in a section called, "New thread" or somtin alike, I'm not very creative with naming, and as soon as the thread gets 50 replies its either pushed by itself outta there, (well, were will it go)?? Probably will have to be done manually some1 will be in charge to move it to its designated section, (that's anyways a good idea, cuz newcomers who r not familiar with all the sections, can sometimes make an intro in the WOH, or break free in the introduce urself section, and for that 1 section called "new threads" etc. We should make an extra effort to check in there every day & respond to the new topics, this will help not just the new comers, but also the veterans, who sometime feel ignored when opening a new thread for a problem they wana address brillaint idea. i would suggest being move out after 30 posts. for a name how about "(gy)eye sores"

Just a thought of JIP erev shabbos kodesh Noach

i still wonder in groups might also be helpfull in the long run.

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by trying123 - 10 Oct 2010 01:52

Yosef Hatzadik wrote on 08 Oct 2010 18:53:

Well??

Do we all agree that conversations with self are not ideal???

:-[:-X :-[:-X :-[:-X

;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D ;D

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED
Posted by mnman415 - 10 Oct 2010 01:58

i love JIPs idea!

are you gona ask guard?

=====
=====

Re: Are we all feeling ignored? RECENTLY UPDATED

Posted by jewinpain - 10 Oct 2010 02:20

I send rabbi a message, waiting to hear back, I'm sure it will take some time to set it up, as rabbi is very busy raising some bucks for us

=====
=====