

Save hundreds of Neshamos

Posted by Hundreds of Neshamas - 24 Jan 2011 06:01

This is an emergency situation. I am in a yeshiva where there is an unlocked wifi signal which is broadcast into the dorm. I know for a fact that there are guys that are and do watch porn to extreme levels. The problem is that the owner of the wifi doesn't seem to be willing to lock his wifi. Anyone have any ideas. There may be no other ways to stop this, but maybe someone has some way. Thank you very much.

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos

Posted by pinokio - 24 Jan 2011 14:41

I'm no posek, i dont wanna say ne-thing wrong out here where people see-but I'm a man of action Let's break down scenario of your's-1)you found someone being machshil the rabbim

2)you were poseach bishalom with him and he won't listen

3)you have a mishna brura handy, see first page where he says with people like this there's mitzvah, after trying to negotiate toWAGE EMBLAZENED WAR WITH THESE PEOPLE

You can tell authorities, put up blurred picture of him around lightpoles, i don't know.

It could even be mutar to take his pc and run it over with a steamroller.

NOW I'M ANGRY!

He's killing people and your'e not sure-RISE TO THE OCASSION AND DO SOMETHING! ! THIS IS LIFE ,not a joke.

I had personal psak from rebbe in telshe chicago and in a diff. story from rebbe in tomo TO SEARCH AND DESTROY. rebbe said "....and if THE boy is upset that you threw out his mag., tell him that he can take you to a bais din. GET IT. nOW GO!

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos

Posted by ZemirosShabbos - 24 Jan 2011 15:37

what about telling the rosh yeshiva or the mashgiach?

or writing a polite, non-accusatory and articulate letter to the fellow outlining what can be accessed by the many young bochurim if there are no restrictions on the wifi.

offer to pay for a technician to come down and configure it offer to daven/learn for his zechus for a day/week/month if he will comply threats and strong-arm tactics are dramatic but need to be used only under guidance

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by Me3 - 24 Jan 2011 15:40

Not that I know about this stuff, but I hear that it isn't smart to have an unsecured internet connection. It can leave your computer susceptible to (a)viruses.

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by ben durdayah - 24 Jan 2011 18:01

How's about getting someone to give him a little early Mishloach Manos of that virus that's running around Paras (Iran)?

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by KiviYVY - 24 Jan 2011 19:08

I just read a few of these Google hits - www.google.com/search?q=how+to+block+an+unsecured+wifi&ie=utf-8&oe=utf-8&aq=t&client=firefox-a&rlz=1R1GGLL_en_US378 - and the only solution that seems workable is similar to what Me3 said - explain to the neighbor how much of a threat this is to him - how strangers can hack into his network and his computer (identity theft, viruses, etc).

=====
=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos

Posted by Hundreds of Neshamas - 24 Jan 2011 23:35

Thanks everyone for the replies. Let me explain a bit more without giving out too much info and getting myself in trouble. It seems this person who owns the wi-fi is not a jew, and therefor doesn't understand the concepts we live by too clearly. Again, without saying too much, the R'Y knows about the internet, but claims that there is no way to stop people from getting on. Maybe there is a way to see somehow where people are connecting from which would be a deterrent to the bachurim from going on? I don't know what to do, but its a very very scary situation and I'm truly worried.

=====
=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos

Posted by KiviYVY - 25 Jan 2011 00:22

A goy would understand the danger of viruses and hacking. He doesn't have to do it "lishma".

Also, there are yeshivos that require anyone with a computer to have something like eblaster or covenant eyes/webchaver (IMO better..) with the reports sent to someone from the Yeshiva administration. You might suggest that to the Rosh Yeshiva.

=====
=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos

Posted by Rising Up - 25 Jan 2011 02:26

I am in a Yeshiva where there was the same issue. One of the people around the dorm building had an unsecured connection. What the Rosh Yeshiva did was this. He found the most technologically adept bochur in the yeshiva and had him knock on the door of this person and offer him to secure the internet connection for free along with any issues that come up. problem solved.

=====
=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by Kedusha - 25 Jan 2011 03:46

If the Yeshiva permits computers, it should be requiring an effective filter, which is required al pi Halacha, as per the unanimous Psak of the Moetzes Gedolei HaTorah. Otherwise, it is no better than a "Yeshiva" that allows the Bochorim to eat Treif.

And, the Yeshiva should also require monitoring software (such as eBlaster or Webchaver), which the Moetzes strongly recommended.

=====
=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by Maccabee - 25 Jan 2011 04:10

@Kedusha: Before starting to accuse I would assume that the bochorim are accessing the internet with wifi-enabled phones and ipods. Not with computers. That makes putting on filters and accountability software virtually impossible. What I would recommend is prohibiting these devices as most Yeshivos these days do.

Kedusha, I don't mean to be harsh, but i think that's very cynical to say. No one is perfect and I think we will be the first to admit.

=====
=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by Hundreds of Neshamas - 25 Jan 2011 11:23

Maccabee wrote on 25 Jan 2011 04:10:

@Kedusha: Before starting to accuse I would assume that the bochurim are accessing the internet with wifi-enabled phones and ipods. Not with computers. That makes putting on filters and accountability software virtually impossible. What I would recommend is prohibiting these devices as most Yeshivos these days do.

Exactly the problem, its the ipods and cell phones. I doubt anyone in the whole yeshiva has a laptop.

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by Kedusha - 25 Jan 2011 14:37

That's precisely the point - if these devices are unfiltered, they are ossur to use and the Yeshiva should not be allowing them.

> >

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos
Posted by Me3 - 25 Jan 2011 15:05

Who said the Yeshiva lets? Do you know how easy it is to hide an ipod?

=====

Re: Save hundreds of Neshamos

Posted by Kedusha - 25 Jan 2011 15:10

That's a good point - much like the idols that Yoshiyahu Hamelech tried to eradicate. It sounds like the Rosh Yeshiva needs to be made aware of the situation and, at least, make the effort that Yoshiyahu did.

=====

=====