Posted by pinokio - 27 Jan 2011 17:35

Shabbos is coming. This holy day unfortunately always throws me into depression. don't have time now to explain why, but point is its starting to set in my little brain right now.

I need support from any hands on deck at GYE. Im working on the inyun and am not gonna fix it overnight, but i just need a little friendship to keep me till motzai shabbos. Not embarrassed to say, and Im anyways gonna decide now that i wont let my feelings get out of control, hashems with me, and everything will be alright. ill be besimcha as best as i can. this isnt gonna be some amazing profound 100page thread, its just right now i need a little, yeah, you know already.

Ive gotta log off but will check later.

Help.

Tzaddik, you're a brave man, braver than most of us here. You'll be great tomorrow. And all the nervousness will dissipate if you see that one of your friends -- the one you never dream was there -- is also there. Good Luck, and like ZS said, we will be davening for you.

May the force be with you.

I haven't gone to an SA meeting - yet. (I have been told that I will likely end up there, but not yet.)

I have been to GYE meetings, though.

The 1st was when Duvid Chaim was in town for business & many of us met him one evening. I had a VERY hard time gathering the courage to go. Even after I traveled to the meeting's location i was still debating whether I should turn around & go home. I put my hand on the doorknob; it was a sweaty palm. I rang the doorbell & tried the knob. It was unlocked. Tepidly, I slowly opened the door, my heart in my throat, & looked inside.

One of the guys was walking toward me [to answer my ring & open the door]. His glowing face was adorned with a bright smile. I started relaxing. As I stood at the doorway of the room where the guys were gathered I responded to their greeting with my name, Yosef Hatzadik. Their enthusiastic welcome put me at ease!

The LIVE component of that meeting was GREAT. It capitulated me into my longest clean streak EVER!

I am very happy that I let myself be convinced to attend!!

I understand that this is VERY different from the SA meetings. this was more of a party/get-together, but the fear of being seen is there all the same.

Can someone make a dummies guide to GYE?

If you were not scared, that would probably mean that you were an idiot or something.

No?

You are really not alone!!! But there are indeed times in recovery (and in life in general) when we need to take a few little steps all by ourselves. These are the really important ones. Then everything gets easier. "We step into the light - into a whole new way of life..." It's really not that bad, you know.

Nu. At least you know you are not an idiot!

Love,

Dov

must b brief, wife chasing me with rolling pin,

i did CBT for long time to bring all my trauma into the front concious, for the initiated it's the most blessedly painful and rewarding feeling possible

i dont live in my past,

but bec. i accessed it to help a few people on various threads here this week, plus s/thing that Zem told me,

the unexpected happened

and like i posted, somehow

all those thoughts came out so much unexpectedly that i felt i was a young broken boy again

it was exhilarating, incredible, undiscribable

and i had to face it head on

i was scared from SA mainly bec. of having to stare this ugly as sin painful life and shelf it once and for all being identified is not making both legs shake only a few fingers, life) wrote the most brilliant thing i'd ever seen in my entire adult and then 7up, (BUNDT PAN 7up!

she wrote "removing addiction means begining over"

so today im being born again.

that's it.

now it's all wrapped up.

im even gonna change my username a bit

now im gonna be born again

im a baby

new into the world

have a good shabbos

the NEW tzaddik90

Feel proud of yourself - going to that meeting was REAL strength and gvurah. Forget the weaklings external defences of guns and nunchaku.
