Shabbos is coming. This holy day unfortunately always throws me into depression. don't have time now to explain why, but point is its starting to set in my little brain right now.

I need support from any hands on deck at GYE. Im working on the inyun and am not gonna fix it overnight, but i just need a little friendship to keep me till motzai shabbos. Not embarrassed to say, and Im anyways gonna decide now that i wont let my feelings get out of control, hashems with me, and everything will be alright. ill be besimcha as best as i can. this isnt gonna be some amazing profound 100page thread, its just right now i need a little, yeah, you know already.

Ive gotta log off but will check later.

Help.

Of course, I fought fiercely back like a koala bear who battles an armadillo over an acorn, and I won.

Please explain this one to me. :o :o :o :o :o

One second here GYEs,

First we had a Yiddish thread.

Then we spoke some Hungarian.

Suddenly you're speaking Ivrit.

Next thing you know we might slip into English...

That would be really funny!

I said English reb b.

You know, like we speak in the Tri-State Area of Boro Park -

Not British...

British is almost like English, just it's the funny way that they talk in England -Capich?

No wonder no one understands me, I speak South African.

Anyway T90 (which is 88 levels better than the awesome T2)

I have sensed from this thread that you have been taking more and more strain.

The intensity of the battle has been increasing since the start.

You can't fix everything in one day and if you do take on too much at once it will backfire on you.
(Thats a sort-of quote from somewhere).

You are a fighter, but every boxing match I've ever seen, they sit down for a couple of seconds every few minutes to catch their breath.
