Sundays are much too quiet around here.

I guess the oilam is busy in the country... (and don't ask me which country)

One more benefit of living in Israel - Sunday is just another workday, so it was all day in my office for me! Having someone else in my office with me the entire day made sure that the internet served it's true purpose - to help me with parnassa, to listen to shiurim (big simpletoremember.com fan here) and NOTHING more!

I'm having a tough time (my wife is pregnant so it's been a few weeks since she's felt well enough for anything) and temptation is rising, but I want to make it on to the 90 day chart, so I'm staying strong. This forum rocks.

To everyone out there still suffering from "the Sundays", just know that Sunday is almost over in Yerushalayim, so if you set your hear to Yerushalayim, you've essentially survived the day!

Oyoyoyoyoyoy Zinteg!!!

OYOYoyOYO Zeeentag!!!

OYoYOOyooy...

Hey where's the rebbe?

This place is always TOIT Zintag!

Almost done with surviving it though.

KOT! NMW! ECDW!

Hey I agree.

Sunday is my worst day.

It is usually when I have my biggest falls.

Every other day im at work and have a schedule.

Shabbes i'm in shul & have people to socialize.

Sunday I am stuck at home with not much to do & nobody to hang with and my computer.

Even if I plan something to do when I come home I am bored and I fail.

I guess it's b/c we are use to being busy the whole day on a regular day that when comes sunday we don't know how to deal with ourselves.

????? ????? ???? ???? ?

starting the GYE Softball League would be a great mitzva, imho

p.s. same goes for the GYE Air Hockey League, GYE Kugelach League and GYE Capture the Flag League

Trivia Question:

Today is Sunday.

What does that mean to you?

B"h I survived so far.

Going to Kollel Erev.

Hope you all have a good Shabbos Sheini Shel Goliyos...
