hi -

and welcome.

we've had a few young teenager come visit.

here are my humble thoughts:

1. sexual desires as a young teen are normal and biological
2. the more you think about the subject the more difficult it will be for you
3. try to harness this new found energy - and focus it into something more productive unless the problem is really out of hand (whatever that might be) - I dont suggest a daily phone contact to discuss your new sexual energies. once a week maybe...but only as needed.

I'd rather see you check in with a friend - just to say hi, and come out of isolation mode.
