

Ideas to combat boredom and keep strong
Posted by DavidT - 23 Mar 2020 20:59

We all know that many people are sitting home and going nuts... I keep on getting complaints about renewed nisyonos and falls..

please help with ideas to combat boredom and keep strong....

If i may suggest, if someone needs a remote chavrusa they can go to chavrusamatch.com or torahmates.org Other ideas might be doing exercise, listening to or playing music, hobbies...

GYE has started a special bi-weekly email series to help us stay inspired in these trying times. The emails contain inspiration, stories and practical tips to help us in our struggle - and a joke at the end to keep us smiling :-) yes I fully agree, Boredom is a major problem now, for those of us who are temporarily at home, not working, not going to minyan, not going to yeshiva or learn w our chavrusas.

what we need is structure. we still must somehow maintain the same schedule every day. daven shacharis at the same time, try to set up chavrusas over the phone at the same time. to keep a schedule like this requires motivation & effort, which in itself is a challenge.

I dont have any more suggestions at the moment. I myself am bored, unmotivated, & lacking structure. I'm looking for solutions.

People are asking where they can find the GYE ebooks...

guardyoureyes.com/ebooks

I also would like to recommend listening to theshmuz.com/series/the-fight/ or the other great free lectures there or www.torahanytime.com

if you are looking for inspiration on bitachon you can call the life of bitachon hotline which is updated daily 732 719 3898
