sigh...sigh....nu....nu....if only

I started masturbating when i was 8 years old. i went to a so called orthodox jewish day school were we learnt at age 10 that it was normal. The way i found out it was assur was when a goy told me at the age of 16 that he heard from a rabbi that it is assur. from that point on, i have been on a constant inner battle with myself.

Today i am 25, so-to-speak religious (im actually a "chasidshe rabbi" with a black hat jacket and beard), married with children. I seem to always fall back into the pornography, especially when my wife isnt around. Today, my wife had to leave early to work and i was supposed to give a shiur in a yeshiva. Instead, after she left home i went on the internet and fell twice, one after the other. this is it. i have to change myself. Last time my wife went to work early the same thing happened! And i promised myself that this is never going to happen again! But i keep falling and keep promising myself but nothing seems to ever work!!! I have to find another way, and i hope this is it.

I tried to start up my own 90-day chart but im not revieving the confirmation email so im just getting more and more and more frustrated....i feel like the whole day has been one big waste

One thing is for sure, we are filtering the internet TODAY (g-d willing)

Completely unrelated regarding the story you brought down I remember seeing that a mikre layla on Yom Kippur (where it was not brought on by improper thoughts) is actually a good siman.

Ha ha was that a joke !!! good siman...???!!

Ahem....., but seriously..... no question I do believe that first the YH tries to get us to fail/ fall and then uses that failure as an excuse to make us depressed, fail again, into a vicious cycle.... so just forget about it and move on. Now i get the KOT !!!!

I have to agree as well what a treasure this site is !! I sooo regret not having found it before....years ago I would be a happy man today...or happier. I am happy now...

Shalom my dear brothers...love you all

See Mishne Brura Siman Tof-Reish-Tes-Vov (615) Se'if Beis and what he writes on the bottom.

Here's a link to see it online:

And yes, Atzvus is one of the YH's most potent weapons!

Keri on YK is a good or bad siman depending if you make it through the year, i think. I once saw (in piskei teshuvos) that this is ONLY if no improper histaklus or hirhurim caused it. Today, we can assume it came from one of those and the whole thing would not apply. I beleive he said even if the histaklus and hirhurim were a couple of weeks ago.

I heard that the whole thing about it being a good siman is only for a person who is completely above that whole inyan ok.....on thursday night i fell again because of youtube (something 'holy' had brought me to youtube and for some reason a so-called 'related video' ruined by track...

but i finally got k9 filter today...the filter gabbai has my code.

I have a question.

i feel so connected to this inyan that i dont feel there is anything wrong with it. i mean i know its wrong in a makif-dike way but i feel like i want to keep going c'v but still be a chasidishe yid, etc, etc. its like the famous statement that once you do a sin more than once it already becomes for you like a heter. there are times, obviously, were i feel that i dont want to do this but there are times when i feel like i want to eg now that we got the k9 i spent about 30 minutes entering all different websites to see if perhaps, just perhaps they left something out by accident. :-[ then, of ..... sometimes i dont feel that the lust is an inner yetzer horo attacking me. sometimes i feel like the lust is ME. And its just annoying that one of the commandments is not to do zero levatalo. VERY ANNOYING. i know what im writing sounds funny and childish, even when i look at it i think to myself 'what kind of idiot is writing this???' but whatever thats the way i feel about it. sometimes. how do i stop? how do i feel that this is a yetzer horo and NOT ME even at the time of a nisayon. i mean its not just like one nisayon and thats it. its an ongoing nisayon until who knows when. and its almost as if i have to fight against me.

welll, i happen to be thinking outloud and i think i have a counterargument against myself...: thats avodas hashem. its a war against ourselves. so HASHEM should win and we should lose, like it says in Tanya. And then we reveal that our TRUE inner selves which is HIDDEN by what we feel as ME has only one ratzon: to do what hashem wants!

Don't feel, just do. Guard your eyes, guard your mind. We're all numb from the aveira. We just have to do this because we know it's destroying us.

Don't fight. Turn your lust over to Hashem. Turn the fight over to Hashem. Daven a lot.
