The battle that I fight within is very different than the one I think you are referring to. I do not fight a battle against desire, I fight a battle against the need to fulfill desire!!

Well put Zduvid.

Now the question to ask is: Why are you addicted to escaping reality? What about your reality is unpleasing and requires an escape? Is there a way to improve the reality or maybe compromise?

Since I can remember, I was always on this planet as a piece of shi. At the age of 8 I was already going to wieght loss group's, and visited every freakin nutritionist that lived within a 100

People might not understand but a human being NEEDS to feel excepted and worthwhile. I always felt different.

I never comprehended the deep emotions that i carried till recently.

And even till today, for example i was by a Bris today in shul at a family members Simcha and one friend asked me "I see your on your way up...(in wieght) what's going on"..

I feel like a uncomfortable soul in my soul.

(A easy girl hook-up would never happen...why would they when they have cute dudes

So I have this tense feeling all the time on one side not fitting in and being ashamed/uncomfortable, and on the other side im tense with needing to go on a diet and working hard on myself. (Exusting)

Nonsense! Have enough confidence to believe you could hook up with anyone!

..Then you'll stop thinking about how to achieve it.

Law of large numbers, my friend! A successful salesman will make thousands of meetings and snag maybe 20, 30 or so.

And please don't take my advice and talk to thousands of girls. Unless you're speed-shidduchisizing.

The Gemora asks your question and answers it.

Personallyl, I practiced: Guard Your Shiktzah.

Was it not somewhere on the lines of, we would stop procreating?

Funny because if the YH of avoda zarah was removed, wouldn't it make us not speak to God?

Rabbi Akiva Tatz goes into it in his book, Worldmask.

Good question.

This site used to have names of therapists.

I looked now and cannot find any.

Perhaps it is not on mobile or perhaps I just don't know where to look (although I was good at finding other stuff).

I do see that they are invested heavily in the relief organization, so perhaps they outsourced it all to the experts.

Try relief and see what they say, or post a comment on matzav askingl for more info.

Keep us posted please.

Seems that there are issues with therapists and mobile version. Hopefully, one of the geeks will look into this.
