

African American Slonim FFB LGYB

Posted by cordnoy - 08 Jul 2015 16:48

Hey!

Any like minded people out there here with similar issues?

Would love to form a group to discuss how we personally can cope with this disease.

As our values are obviously different than others, what can we do to sleigh the beast?

FB, Twitter, Instagram, skype, Text, Yahoo or Whatsapp me for details.

my handle: AASFFBLGYB

Take care!

Yeah, ditto for me too Cordnoy, or maybe African American Slonim LGYB that are BT's? Keep Oish! I hate when it starts a new page....make sure you go back to page 1 to see some funny posts from da oilam.

Includin' this deleted one: Hey SG! What is a sentence usin' "summery"?

SG: That's easy: One of Cordnoy's group members was wearin' a "summery" dress.

The teacher came into the class one day and said, "Students, today's assignment is to make a sentence using the word 'Omelette'".

I volunteered and said "That dude cussed me out but omelette it go instead of fighting about it!"

You never said that LGBTYB's were invited. Why the dress? (and you didn't write the deleted one. (how did you see it anyway))

Oh! and in my dictionary, "Including" and "wearing" are both spelled with a "g" at the end, Mr.

Perhaps Stolin, Novominsk, Radzin....maybe even Chafetz Chaim nickers.

Would that mean Stoliner, Novominsk and Radziner who are wearing the Chofetz Chaim's pants?

The Chofetz Chaim was a Litvak, he didn't wear knickers.

If like to say this conversation is focusing on the external - but the problem is that... it's focusing a bit too much on the internal..

I volunteered and said "That dude cussed me out but omelette it go instead of fighting about it!"

The teacher came into the class one day and said, "Students, today's assignment is to make a sentence using the word 'notwithstanding'".

I volunteered and said "My uncle Harold wore out his pants notwithstanding"
