My Story - Thank Gd Posted by Markz - 17 Sep 2015 00:27
Hi guys!
(Please see my share lower down at end of page 1)
I've been wondering if people with weak communication skills as I have are more vulnerable to the lure of pornography (See this link for example), and if unique non-standard steps would be suggested for us to get out of S^* addiction.
BH I have a great job, kids
I also have a good therapist, but have been hesitant to ask about this yet.
I'd love to hear feedback from anyone familiar with the topic. ZemirosShabbos? You mentioned it some time back HERE
Thanks
Mark

Markz it's time to update your chart?

isn't it red by now? Thank you guys...

I actually wasn't very interested in the 90 day thing in the first place, at least it wasn't my priority and not a tool

I believe in ODAAT, but if it's a help to anyone that I display some sorta count then I'm honored to do so

If what we're doing until now isn't working, maybe it's time to try something new.

Have you considered joining our 12-Step phone groups? The TaPHSiC method? Therapy? Live Groups? There's no excuse... there is always more we can try. This is what we came down to the world. There's no giving up in this game!

I think the reason why the.one.and.only.guard says that there is no excuse is because in my extensive reading the forums, there hasn't been one instance of failure for anyone that had a little determination

All the guys that are still acting out, is due to lack of owning their part, and DOING SOMETHING to better their life, if it means posting on the forums, or SA meetings, or a partner, or Therapy, or lots more...

(For some of us, replace "or", with "and")

My personal tools are not the most powerful, and although I'm very shy, nevertheless if what I am doing wasnt helping me and I had to open up to a real person, I'd do it today, rather than living a dishonest religious life

All it takes is 'naaseh' and you'll 'hear' your engines fire away on the Heilige Trucking highway

Markz, if I may embarrass you with a compliment or two, first, I've personally found your tools and your whole approach very helpful.

Second, you say you're shy and not a communicator, but I find that you are one of the most upbeat and helpful people on the forums.

This week we got a new computer at home
How things have changed!!!
I rely on CovenantEyes reporting system
Previously when I'd get a new device I would first inaugurate it with all filth possible, and then, a day later when I had enough "fun", I'd delete the history, install CE and it was back kosher. And my partner thinks I'm kosher, and so do I! hah!
But on my gye truck I learnt things are different!

I stopped objectifying things (See "The Women Object" in "Free Towing" below)
Today, I see my computer just as a regular human being. It has moods, can get sick, viruses I can be slow, or crash like we all do I don't sexualize it anymore ;-)
So right away without much ado I installed CE, although as mentioned previously my other tools are what are keeping me in check, and only have CE as a backup

Very nice.

I view humans as computers. I turn them on, they turn me on. I view them through a window. I have favorites. I use tools. When they are tired and slow, I need to refresh them. Sometimes I think an add-on would be beneficial. They may get heated up when used a lot. There is a choice to run, however. But like husband and wife, they cannot function alone.
