

The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by Markz - 10 Nov 2015 05:18

The Guys' Guide to Seeing Women, Not Objects

PLEASE SKIP THE SPOILER POSTS THAT AREN'T TOO IMPORTANT

Warning: Spoiler!

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by moshiachman - 30 Nov 2015 04:57

BH

Much strength & a beautiful week to us all IY"H.

Reuven

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by doingtshuva - 30 Nov 2015 12:19

markz wrote:

attractive girls/wives

balt86 wrote:

You have a point. But doesn't anyone have a time when wife is not interested in sex or not interested in making you happy. I think wife get moody very often and dont know how to please thier hubby. Another thing I wanted to say people have more lust on forbidden sex than random sex with a hooker or something easy that you can get than someone who is harder to hook up like married wife or mother in law ECT.

This is classic objectification

Wife has moods, good looking girls dont

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by markz - 21 Dec 2015 19:06

the.guard wrote:

Dear Chasid...

Viewing porn turns all women into objects of lust. This is the very opposite of what relations in a Jewish marriage are meant to be. The "lust" aspect of sexual desire was created by G-d to cause a man to seek out a woman and take her for himself. Once a couple is married, the "lust" aspect of sex should be relegated to the side and should no longer be a dominant aspect of the relationship between the two. They have dedicated themselves to each other, and when they are together, they should be cultivating an emotional bond through the sharing and sensuality of intercourse. Sex is a "sacred moment" of closeness between the two of them. This is also perhaps why Chaza"l prohibited having relations by day. Firstly, because one may see something about his wife's body that may turn him off, and on the other side of the coin, by seeing his wife's body he is fueling his lust instead of focusing on the true sacredness of the moment.

A man who insists to make "lust" the most dominant aspect of his relations, is losing out on the true connection and closeness that martial relations should cultivate, and ultimately his marriage is likely to fall apart. As his wife has children and her body changes, and/or as she gets older, he will loose interest in her and he will never be able to lead a normal marriage life. A relationship built on "lust" quickly fades away. Also, by fueling the lust through his relations and not focusing on building the emotional bond with his wife, he will continue to be pulled after the other women he sees on the street, and will transgress all the time the Issur D'eoraysah of "Lo Sachmod". Lust is truly a poison, and the nature of lust is that "the more you feed it, the more you need it". One can never get enough of lust. In the end, either we win it over or it wins us over.

Just one last thought. Even with a strong resolve, one should never trust themselves in these areas and should get a strong Internet filter for their computer to help them through moments of weakness. And never stop davening to Hashem to save you and your offspring from what is perhaps this generation's biggest test!

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by markz - 21 Dec 2015 20:09

skeptical wrote:

We need to realize that most of us guys who have been influenced by porn have an unrealistic view of how our relationships with our wives should be.

From porn we learn that the sole purpose of women is to make us feel good. From porn we learn that if we touch a woman and they don't melt, writhe and moan, either we are doing something wrong or in most likelihood, they are. From porn we learn that everything should work smoothly and effortlessly changing from one position to the next, otherwise something is wrong. From porn we learn that women should have flawless skin and body parts, and we should never be satisfied with what we have; we should always look at the women we don't have and desire them.

Well, as someone who has had to do some advertising, I want to share something with you.

When I take a picture of a product that I want to advertise and send it off to a graphic designer, the first thing they do is "perfect" the photo. That means that they'll take away blemishes, add color and lighting, etc. - in short, they're making the product look more appealing than it really naturally is. When you're driving down the street and you see a billboard advertising a mouth watering donut and a tall cup of ice coffee, sweating with little beads of cold condensation for $1.50, be prepared that the proportions and presentation at the counter most likely will not be the same as shown on the billboard.

In the porn industry, it is their job to make everything appear MORE - more stimulating, more pleasurable, more than anything you can ever really get. They want you to thirst for their product, to constantly be reaching out for more and more for that just-out-of-reach fantasy they plant in your head. So they play with the lighting, they add music, they direct the actors/actresses to exaggerate their expressions of ecstasy, and to moan incessantly. It's not real.

The problem is with us - Not with our wives!

We need to stop trying to manipulate our wives. We need to stop trying to get them to be something they're not. It's not what they signed up for. We need to work on ourselves to enjoy the gifts Hashem has given us as they are. And we need to deprogram ourselves from the sick way porn has brainwashed us.

Hatzlacha!

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by doingtshuva - 21 Dec 2015 21:56

Thanks for the last two posts, they are well written.

I would like to add that In porn the women looks nice and sexy and she is even playing like she is enjoying.

But that's the BLUF , the porn industry is misusing them and they don't even have pleasure!!!

They even suffer.

They do it for the $

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by formyself#1 - 21 Dec 2015 22:54

Wow this post really helps me!! it sounds amazing.. so how do i start the de-programing?? i need to start right away. i have unreachable expectations of my wife in my own head!!

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by Shlomo24 - 22 Dec 2015 01:18

formyself#1 wrote:

Wow this post really helps me!! it sounds amazing.. so how do i start the de-programing?? i need to start right away. i have unreachable expectations of my wife in my own head!!

why don't you start your own thread and tell us a bit about yourself? maybe we could figure out what can be helpful for you.

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)
Posted by cordnoy - 22 Dec 2015 01:41

Shlomo24 wrote:

formyself#1 wrote:

Wow this post really helps me!! it sounds amazing.. so how do i start the de-programing?? i need to start right away. i have unreachable expectations of my wife in my own head!!

why don't you start your own thread and tell us a bit about yourself? maybe we could figure out what can be helpful for you.

His own thread

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by Shlomo24 - 22 Dec 2015 21:14

thnx. i saw it afterwards

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by markz - 29 Dec 2015 20:42

gibbor120 wrote:

Objectifying Myself ???:

dov wrote on 07 Nov 2011 18:08:

Which reminds me that when I think of a women as an object, I am really thinking of myself as less of a person and more of an object: A sexual pleasure-being rather than a real human-being.

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)

Posted by markz - 04 Jan 2016 03:59

tehillimzugger wrote:

kidushashem wrote on 18 Oct 2011 00:29:

I know what you're talking about. I'm finding though that it's becoming easier to treat them as people and not lust after them.

SHE's not a GIRL she's a person

SHE's not a GIRL she's a person

SHE's not a GIRL she's a person

it's not working, any tips? ???

kidushashem wrote on 18 Oct 2011 00:29:

stop imagining that there's something there, you'll be fine.

but there /S something there :-[

kidushashem wrote on 18 Oct 2011 00:29:

Say hello when you need to, be polite, done. Don't bump into trees because you don't want to look at the shaina meidel.

i'm not bumping into trees- don't worry about me ;D

[besides for once when i was on a major "up" and in the corner of my eye i saw a girl approaching so i veered off course a bit to avoid her, but then she imitated me, putting us on a straight collision course with my eyes almost stuck to the sidewalk i attempted to move even further- but there she was again almost bumping into me. and then....

she spoke- she spoke to me and told me "good shabbos" which is when i realized that it was my sister ;D we had a good laugh on that one, but i was a bit embarrassed at having treated her as a pink elephant]

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)
Posted by markz - 10 Jan 2016 00:00

Extreme objectification

R' Yitzchok Fingerer wrote:

When the Nazis vanquished Poland one of the first things they did was flood the bookstores with pornography

Why?

What is the connection between promiscuity and becoming less of a human being?

Why should acts done in the bedroom affect the level of violence and theft in a society?

It is precisely the sins of a sexual nature that lead to a corrupt and pernicious society. When people indulge their sexual nature without boundaries they are letting their bodies take control. They become concerned only with their own pleasure and not with how their actions may affect others. The satisfaction of their own drives being their ultimate goal, they will attempt to acquire whatever they desire no matter what it takes. They will rob cheat murder rape oblivious to the harm inflicted on others. The victimless crime invariably leads to a society rife with victims

The Nazis understood the above principal all too well. This is why they flooded the bookstores of Poland with pornography immediately after their conquest.

They knew that if they could encourage people to focus on their personal sexual needs, they would be willing to cooperate with whatever immoral edicts the nazis promulgated.

The human reluctance to hurt other people is lessened by sexual promiscuity

~Search Judaism~

=====

Re: The Women object!! (Siri-ously)
Posted by markz - 18 Jan 2016 16:22

Steve wrote:

Koliel Guy wrote on 11 Jan 2010 08:37:

Chazal say "Isha chemas malei tsoah, upiah malei dam". If you think about it, it's a rather disturbing thought. It makes you disgusted with the concept of a woman.

This might sound extreme, but you are in an extreme situation. Why don't you accustom yourself to seeing her that way. Let that be the thought which goes through your mind every time you pass her room.

If you think this is nuts then I guess just take someone elses advice, but chazal tell you to do this - and for a very good reason, because it works.

Hang in there man,

KG

KG, I disagree with your approach.

Thinking of women in this regard is yet again another DE-PERSONIFICATION of a human being, meaning that again you are turning her into an object in your mind. Instead of an attractive Sex-Object, now into a disgusting bloody object. But it's still the same koach of turing her into a object. And that's opposite of what we are trying to accomplish, even as first aid.

This topic could be a new thread on it's own.

What we learned in DC's Calls is to PERSONIFY. To think of her as a human being with hopes and dreams and a life separate from yours. Of course, we're not talking about fantasizing, or trying to befriend this person. But making her into a human being just like you, with faults and greatness of their own. Someone with parents, someone who has friends, family, joy and sadness. In short, as a person. The videos we used to watch, the pictures we used to see made these women onto objects, not people. One of the biggest turn-offs guys joke about is that a girl was really attractive until she opened her mouth. Once she became a real person, and you found even one small flaw, that's it - you're outa here.

Do the same thing here. She's not a bag of blood. She's a person, with feelings and flaws, WHICH YOU DON'T REALLY CARE TO GET TO KNOW. CAUSE IF YOU WOULD, YOU'LD KNOW THAT YOU'D BE DISAPPOINTED. So now it's easier to project that feeling into the situation NOW, and learn to have just enough dislike to make her uninteresting.

Different approach. Better results.

=====

Re: Why in the world did I get married?
Posted by markz - 07 Mar 2016 17:32

realsimcha wrote:

ataglance12345 wrote:

It seems that at certain times, the lust factor just increases exponentially. Every woman I see on the street lately, I begin to fantasize. It is embarrassing and demeaning to both myself and the object of my lust fantasy. I try to keep my head down and not stare, but at some point I must look up and, boom, a like clockwork, pretty woman is within eye sight.

I got issues.

you and me both! I had an idea that has helped for me. Sometimes when i see a woman whom i might feel lust for i think about her father and how much he must love her and want to protect her. I think about the fact that she has parents who want whats best for her. Maybe she has a husband who would walk through fire for her or children who depend on her. either way, this helps me to not look at her a s a "thing" but rather as a person with a life and relatonships and meaning...

=====

Re: The Women object!!

Posted by markz - 18 Apr 2016 22:22

The.guard wrote

1) The 12 Steps groups around the world are intentionally mixed, even though it is known that the opposite sexes do trigger each other in group support - especially for addicts. And yes, this can -and has - led to trouble, but only with those who hadn't really hit bottom or weren't really ready for the groups yet. The idea behind the intentional mixing, is that the men should learn to stop objectifying and sexualizing women, and through hearing about their struggles and giving each other support, the men begin to see women in a different light. And this is an important part of the healing process.

2) HOWEVER - and this is a big HOWEVER, as frum people, we can't take these kind of risks, even if there is some benefit to be found in it. The risk of even one person falling is not worth the gain.

=====

=====