

Going through alone

As so many people here, I am struggling alone. It is not easy going through anything alone, let alone personal private issues. I don't know how to go about it and feel at times that there is nothing that I can do. I might be right. I might be wrong. I don't know.

excuse me for sounding dumb , what did hbowman say in his post that everyone figured out it was a ssa problem, not that it makes a difference what everyones personal struggle is ,btw welcome hbowman , i think this welcome is a little late since you seem like an oldtimer here.

The OP edited his post recently and he probably removed some details.

The truth is that for the most part the struggle is the same, and the tools are the same, even if the pictures are different. For me, accepting that I'm not fighting SSA but I'm fighting Lust made a big difference.
