

Getting Started, Round Two

Posted by Spike Ed - 05 Dec 2016 02:30

---

Im gonna keep this quick and to the point...

This isn't my first time here. I've had issues with this addiction on and off since I was a teenager and joined here after I got married when I felt the impact of this addiction on my life ever more. I remember posting that I would never tell my wife and try to get better by myself but I didn't so I finally discussed it with my wife who is very supportive.

Since then I have had ups and downs put very clearly moving upward. I even set my wife as my accountability partner on covenant eyes (meaning she gets reports about my internet usage, it was my idea)

I'm here to join the community to get and give strength. I am starting my 90 day journey as well at day 1 and hope to hit that mark.

Thanks to all those here who have helped me before. I'm ready for round two now.

=====