

my problems

Posted by mikestruggling - 15 Mar 2017 14:33

hi yakov or whoever will read this.

?i grew up in an abusive atmosphere my mother would beat me, i was bullied in school and one of my rebbeim picked on me and got my whole class to laugh at me. i was in therapy for the resulting problems for quite some time. i still see a therapist from time to time. at one point for two years i was taking meds a generic for Zoloft. that's my emotional history.

as for the kedusha problems I've been masturbating now for 13 yrs.. i have spoken to numerous rebbeim who tried to help me along the way. they weren't really equipped to deal with me. eventually i discovered porn but baruch hashem i always had limited access. i still have relapses in porn which are hard to get out of. i'm now married bh and i have a daughter bli ayin hora. please help not sure how you'll contact me my email is mikefineroth@gmail.com (not my name and i don't know anyone with that name)

hope we'll finally break free

It is a great madreiga when one who is depressed, instead of throwing in the towel, commits to working a program that involves effort, dealing with tough emotions, facing resentments and fears (that nobody naturally tends to enjoy doing in the best of times), and courageously posting that he will follow up with a post when done - thus being mechayev himself to actually do what he said he would do. It also tells us that Mike is BH a great man and will b'ezras Hashem break free.

Hey Mike. I just got done reading all your posts. I was wrong to assume that your posts are average, they aren't. You are an interesting guy for a lot of reasons. One is that you like SA but so far it hasn't realized its true potential for you. Another one is that you know how to write. And you suffer from anxiety, depression and addiction. And you take medications (and you are physically addicted to them) and they may or may not be helping you. I've done therapy and I'm pretty sure psycho medicines do very little above placebo. They screw you up and then you need to keep taking them, but they don't necessarily help you in the way you hoped. And your therapist may prescribe them because he doesn't understand what else to do for you.

I think you keep running really hard towards better mental health but you are not running in a straight line. And I fear that it's because the real issue may be a mildly bipolar type of problem, like I have. When you are up you want to do the program (which you love). And when you are down you jump off the wagon with both feet because you are down (you know the feeling.)

But you don't understand WHY you are up when you are up, and why you are down when you are down. And until you understand it you are stuck with this. It's a logical nexus in your brain which is too humiliating to acknowledge because it means that you have no intrinsic worth. "I am worthwhile if and only if ----"

But I like your writing and your humor.

I think I am about twenty years older than you. I may have insights that could help (or not.) I don't usually do phone calls, but for you I would make exceptions. I think you are worth it, and I know things about people.

I'm a bit depressed. I can't think of anything to do despite a million things to do. I wanna commit to sitting with my fourth step and a pen for at least 5 mins.

(my swifkey auto correct just thought of a better word than pen- p*rn)

Update: Commitment fulfilled

most of my recent posts start off with I'm a little depressed. I'm BH not always depressed usually I'm not these days. I just tend to post when I am depressed.
