

Hello

Hi everyone,

I made my account a while ago, (and have been getting the emails and WhatsApp messages for a while) but never really took it seriously.

Today is a day to celebrate because I finally went and started my 90 day chart. As soon as I submitted the form I felt a sense of elation, thinking this is going to work.

Unfortunately I'm so wired in to this filth that the rest of the day has me feeling sort of depressed.

I've had monitoring tools and filters for the longest time, but I'm always looking for ways around them. The tricks I've come up with... But I'm only fooling myself.

One MAJOR WIN for me today was when I updated my iPhone to the latest version of iOS.(I've been using the but in whitelist filtering.) For some reason the whitelist became inactive, and I was able to access whatever I wanted. In the past this would have meant a trip to the bathroom... after which-- feeling guilty I would fix it. But I held back and went straight to my friend with the passcode to fix it up.

?Thank you GYE, and thank you Hashem.

All this todo about a screenname I don't remember making.

I think I was trying to be funny and anonymous at the same time.

So you're logging on with someone else's credentials... thats cool!

Just kidding

Great job on your MAJOR win today - I had the same struggle often too

BH I made it this far. It definitely helped having Yom Kippur and all, but at this point I'm still counting baby steps.

Today is my last full day of work until after Yom Tov. If I make it through the day, I have a pretty your right, it takes work, and for some of us LOTS and LOTS of HARD work, but it really is worth it.

Don't forget that all we have is today, yesterday is gone, tomorrow is not here yet, all we got to good chance of making it through Simchas Torah. And some Simchas Torah that will be focus on is TODAY!!!! So lets take one day at a time; and try to do our best.

It takes some skill. Make sure you do your homework, so you don't get discouraged.

I made it through the day BH.

But I keep feeling like I'm missing something.

How long till it gets better?
