

The Last Fight

Posted by TheLastFight - 20 Feb 2020 05:25

hello everyone,

I'm not new to GYE. I created an account almost a year ago, and had my longest clean streak of 60 days. but since then I haven't had even a full week clean. at the same time I stopped visiting GYE and so I don't remember my account, so I made myself a new account. Im Yirtzeh Hashem it should be a new beginning in all aspects.

I'm not so good at being consistent, but I will try to update at least every other day. hopefully the accountability (somewhat) will help me.

(The name I chose for myself is based on what I've heard many times that the fight against this Yetzer Harah is the last fight before Moshiach)

Alright, a gutte voch!

First of all: so far i'm clean boruch hashem.

Second of all, I realized that I didn't write anything about my situation, so I'll try this time. if anyone was/is in a similiar situation and has any ideas to share, please post them.

the first time I saw porn was 10 years ago, when I was 11. for the next 2 years until I went to an out of town yeshiva, I would watch every once in a while. then I had 2-3 "clean" years (although also then I had 3-4 slip-ups).

after that, even though I was still out of town, I would visit home more often, where I had access to the internet. and obviously it was downhill from there.

this year, while I'm still learning in yeshiva, my situation was that I needed to have a laptop, and it reached a level where I was watching porn and being motzi zera almost daily (boruch hashem, now I have a filter on my laptop).

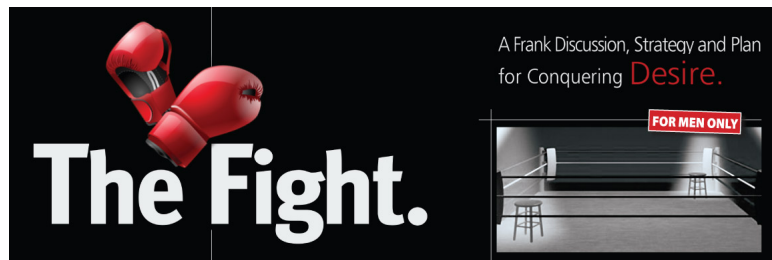

got to go, im yirtzeh hashem i'll continue later
